GEORGIA PUSHES I. C. C. TEST CASE ON FREIGHT RATES

Hearing on Suspension of Talc Shipment Increase Opens Way for Greater Drive to Win Parity in Other Sections of U. S.

UNIFIED ATTACK ON DISCRIMINATION

McDonald Explains Purpose Is to Place State Industry in Competition at Principal Markets.

The Georgia Public Service Commission prepared yesterday to push an early test case before the Interstate Commerce Commission in a concerted drive to place southern freight rates on a parity with those of other sections.

The way was opened, Chairman
Walter R. McDonald announced, when the I. C. C. granted a Georgia petition for suspension of a rate increase on talc shipped from Georgia mining areas.

When the suspension is reviewed,
he said, "we will have an opportunity to lay before the commission the whole case of freight rate barriers around Georgia and southern industry."

"The case has all the essential elements of the movement started by Governor Rivers when he organized the southern governors into a unified attack on the discrimination."

Cites Increase.
The talc rate increase was to have become effective today.
Citing one rate to show the relative increase, McDonald said the per ton charge for talc between Chatsworth and Akron, Ohio, would have jumped from $5.09 to $6.40.

The differentials—differences between rates from Georgia to specific points and from other mining areas to the same points—would have ranged as high as $1 a ton on a "mile for mile basis," McDonald said.

This condition would have resulted in a serious handicap to Georgia miners, he declared.

He explained the Georgia commission, in line with the government's organization, is seeking "competitive rates which will place Georgia industry in a position for completing with manufacturers of other sections for business in the principal markets."

At the present time, he con-

Leo Carrillo May Enter Primary For Governor of California

Famous Actor and Parade Leader Waiting Only on 'Voice of People.'

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31.—(P)— Leo Carrillo, actor, parade leader and professional native son, is considering the prospects for becoming a candidate for Governor of California.

He said today "several organizations" which he declined to name, had approached him with the suggestion that he become a candidate for the Democratic nomination.

"I feel reluctant to say anything at this time," Carrillo declared, "but I will admit that I have a sentimental as well as a constructive interest in this great state. To those who have asked me for my reaction, I haven't said
'yes' and I haven't said 'no.'"

Active Off Screen.
Coincidentally, just 100 years ago, in 1837, Leo's great grandfather, Carlos Antonio Carrillo, was first provisional Governor of the state.

Few players are so active off
the screen as Carrillo, whose fam-

5 KILLED, 30 HURT IN BUS-CAR CRASH; MOTORIST BLAMED

2 Passengers in Serious Condition; Coroner Says Auto Ran in Path of Greyhound Transport.

GOSHEN, Ind., Aug. 31.—(P)— Death toll from the collision of a huge cruiser type transport Greyhound bus and a sedan near here today stood at five tonight but two of the more than 30 injured were in a critical condition.

Motorist Blamed.
Coroner Karl Vetter said tonight he had "established definitely" that the sedan, driven by Allison Bishopric, 65, of Cincinnati, Ohio, drove onto U. S. Highway 20 without stopping at the warning signal. Vetter said the bus struck Bishopric's car broad-side.

Bishopric was one of the five killed.

Other dead were John H. Heinsohn, 60, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. James Kelleher, 24, of Chicago.

Alfred G. Carpentier, 22, of Iowa City, Iowa.

Raymond J. Burkin, negro porter on the bus, working out of

City Tax Installment Deadline Set Today

Final installments of city taxes become due today, the City Board of Tax Assessors and Receivers announced yesterday.

J. C. Little, Leo Suddarth and J. Sid Tiller, assessors, pointed out that the last installments are due between September 1 and October 15, after which delinquent bills go to fi. fas. Tax payments have been exceptionally good this year, they said.

"Valuable Information."

ESTRANGED WIFE DEFENDS HER MATE

Told of His Detention; Victim Is Laid to Rest.

J. D. Green, 37, of 246 Luckie street, was arrested yesterday by city police for questioning in connection with the three-day-old murder of William Howard Vannerison.

Green, a carpenter, was picked up at his home at 1030 o'clock yesterday morning by Detectives D. L. Taylor and Morgan B. Johnson, of the homicide squad.

Although he was questioned declined to divulge reasons for detaining Green, booked on a charge of suspicion of murder.

"Valuable Information."
Detective Taylor said that while he has gained "valuable information" there are several leads to the Sunday morning "ride" murder of the Tech High school graduate and businessman that still must be run down.

Green told a Constitution reporter last night his arrest stunned him.

"I haven't the faintest idea why they arrested me," he said. "They told me they wanted to talk to me about a murder when they came around to my house."

"Never Killed Anybody."
"Why, I never killed anybody in my life and I don't know a thing in the world about this murder they're talking about."

Green is a six-footer, weighing about 185 or 190 pounds.

Although separated from her husband six months, Mrs. Beulah Frances Green came staunchly to his defense last night when told he was suspected of the crime.

"Denson couldn't have done it,"
she kept repeating. "He's too fine a man, and he hasn't ever been in trouble before."

When told of the arrest she immediately tried to get into the city

FOUR CONVICTED OF STOCK FRAUDS

Kopald-Quinn Verdict Ends Long Trial; Guilty Declared Ringleaders.

Four men, described by government attorneys as ringleaders in a $5,000,000 stock fraud ring, were convicted here last night of violating securities exchange act. The trial, which entered its 20th week Monday, was regarded as a test of the securities act of 1933 and involved more than two years of investigation and preparation.

In addition to the individuals,
Kopald-Quinn & Co. and Gould &
Co., were declared guilty.

Four Acquitted.
Convicted were Joseph M. Sherman, Leonard I. Suttman, J. A.
Ricebaum and Joseph R. Mendel-son. Acquitted by the jury were the remaining four defendants,
Harry Newberger, B. F. Gould, Benjamin Waller and Meyer Wolfson. Of the original 24 defendants, three entered guilty pleas; nine were released under directed verdicts; two mistrials were declared and two have not yet been brought to trial.

Kopald-Quinn & Co. was found guilty on 11 counts and Gould & Co. on counts 1 and 15. Four of the original 15 counts, 3, 6, 7 and 10, were stricken from the indictment.

The case, tried before Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood, went to the jury at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon following a four-hour charge by Judge Underwood. The jury was locked up at 9:30 o'clock Monday night. It remained closed-ed until 9:30 o'clock last night when it notified bailiffs it was ready to return a verdict.

Gambling Ace Set To Recoup Million Loss

Uruguayan To Sit at 'Big Table' Today With 'Sky
the Limit.'

BIARRITZ, France, Aug. 31.—
(P)—Suave Amleto Battisti, the Uruguayan gambler who lost a fortune playing "sky the limit" baccarat eight years ago, said
"voilà!" tonight to another whirl
at fortune.

Biarritz Casino attendants got out the "big table" at which Battisti tomorrow intends to take all corners in a game to recoup the $1,000,000 loss which broke him in 1929.

Ever since his fortune was wiped out Battisti has been planning for the day when he could take on the same players again. He has been slowly building up his comeback stake in the casinos of Cuba and other Latin-American cities, and in Europe.

Ready to Risk Luck.
Now he is back at Biarritz, ready to risk his luck again in an effort to regain his former rank among the big-time baccarat players of the world.

He has watched his two agents play here against "small fry" gamblers but, so far, the group of men who cleaned him out years ago has held off.

Casino attendants disclosed, however, that Battisti, since returning here, already has lost 1-000,000 francs (about $37,000) through the play of his chief agent, Antonio Abecassis, against a Frenchman.

"That's nothing for Battisti," the attendants said. "Nobody but his agents know how much he has won from other people."

Can't Beat Figures.
"He says you can't beat figures and he ought to know."

Battisti is reputed to be a mathematical genius so far as computing gambling odds is concerned.

Auditorium 'Open House' Today Aimed To Prove Whole Building's Safety

Atlanta's application for WPA aid in repairing the municipal auditorium roof went speeding to Washington last night following approval by Mayor Hartsfield of an agreement whereby the WPA will furnish $23,000 of the repair cost and the city will supply $10-000.

The mayor also invited "all of Atlanta" to attend an informal
"open house" at the auditorium from 4 to 8 o'clock this afternoon so that "the public can see for itself just what damage was done by the collapse of a small section of roof, and what a beautiful job of remodeling the main auditorium has been done by WPA."

Hartsfield declared the auditorium is perfectly safe for inspection and said C. J. Bowen, city building inspector, told him the building is absolutely safe.

Agreement on repairs came yesterday at a conference among Colonel O. K. Yeager, director of all WPA building operations, Councilman John A. White, E. S.
Lewis, architect; R. L. McDougall, state WPA engineer; and Robert G. Loe, Robert S. Fisk and Carl F. Nonnemaker, members of the official board of inquiry.

The WPA agreed to furnish unskilled labor and materials, estimated at $23,000, and the city will supply plans and supervision and skilled labor. It was said the $10,000 to be put up by Atlanta will cover the cost of the investi-

BELGIAN PREMIER WILL DEFEND SELF IN 'BANK SCANDAL'

FASCISTS CREATE POLITICAL FUROR

Government Chief Admits Accepting Monies,

BRUSSELS, Aug. 31.—(P)— Premier Paul Van Zeeland, who resigned a $25,000-a-year vice-governorship of the National Bank to become Belgium's prime minister at one-fifth the salary, will defend himself from charges that he accepted a double pay check when parliament convenes in extraordinary session next week.

King Leopold, in Switzerland, was asked tonight to call the session to investigate what Belgium's Fascists call "a national bank scandal" and what Van Zeeland labels "libel."

Well-informed observers believed parliament will dissolve the threat to the government by giving the coalition cabinet a clean bill of health after debate, although some thought it might level criticisms at the National Bank's procedure.

Cabinet Petitions King.
The cabinet decided to petition the king for the special session today, after a new political furor beset the government. Seven Rexists were arrested last night in a demonstration, but party followers were against any narrow concurrently with a meeting of National Bank shareholders.

Van Zeeland denied he had accepted secret bank bonuses while premier and termed the attacks against him "libelous" effrontery against his integrity.

Admits Bonuses.
He did admit receiving bonuses
but added that these came on several occasions in 1934 and 1935, prior to his becoming premier,
when he was just about to quit or had just rejoined the bank as vice-governor.

The prospect of shake-up both in the government and in the National Bank, however, remained a possibility in case parliament does not act.

Alabama's "Gift to Stage" Marries Co-Star

Broadway was taken by surprise when Tallulah Bankhead, glamorous star of the stage, slipped away by plane with John Emory, who is to play opposite her this fall in "Anthony and Cleopatra," to be married at the home of her father in Alabama. Miss Bankhead was given in marriage by her father, William B. Bankhead, speaker of the house.

Tallulah Bankhead Is Wed To Actor at Father's Home

New Mrs. John Emory and Her Fiance Fly to Alabama.

JASPER, Ala., Aug. 31.—(P)— Glamorous Tallulah Bankhead, actress daughter of Alabama's best-known political family, was married tonight to John Emory,
New York actor.

She was given in marriage by her father, Speaker William B.
Bankhead.

The couple flew to Birmingham from New York today, motored the 40 miles to Jasper and were married at the Bankhead home.

They expected to motor back to Birmingham tonight and fly to New York. After a two-week honeymoon in a cottage near Norwalk, Conn., they will return to Broadway to begin rehearsals for presentation of "Anthony and Cleopatra."

Will Play Together.
The new Mrs. Emory, famous for years for her roles on both stage and screen, will portray the siren of the Nile, while her husband will have the part of Octavius Caesar.

Stephen Cole, New York friend of the bride and groom, acted as best man. Mrs. Bankhead, the speaker's second wife, and Edith Smith, the actress' secretary, were the only attendants.

Probate Judge L. G. Garrison, of Walker county, personal friend of the Bankheads, performed the ceremony.

The bride was dressed in a simply cut brown dress. She wore a poke-bonnet type hat and a string of pearls.

Reception Follows.
Following the wedding, Senator John Bankhead, of Alabama, the bride's uncle; his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bankhead and others attended a reception.

SON-IN-LAW HELD AS ROB 'SPOTTER'

Confession From Relative of Egan Park Clothing Store Man Claimed.

Frank Peal, 18-year-old son-in-law of W. A. Dukes, Egan Park clothing store owner, who beat off a youthful holdup man last Saturday morning, was in custody of Fulton police last night in connection with the attempted robbery.

Police believed that Peal and John DeBerry, alias Dewey, aged 20, captured by police and citizens after the holdup, have been involved in other robberies and were investigating a possibility they blew the College Park Supply Company safe Friday night.

Woman Questioned.
Earlier yesterday, a woman, Orville Brookshire, of 227 Simpson street, had been picked up for questioning but was later released.

Peal was arrested Monday night as he visited DeBerry in Fulton lower.

Peal told County Plainclothes Officer John Carter that he had suggested the robbery of his father-in-law's store to DeBerry, the county officer said. Peal added that he and DeBerry planned to conduct a series of robberies on a "big business" scale, Carter said.

DeBerry and Peal Friday afternoon purchased silk gloves and tennis shoes from a Decatur street clothing store, according to the po-

SHANGHAI, Sept. 1.—(Wednesday).—(P)—Japanese troops pressed desperately against the devastating fire of Chinese machine guns today, fighting to consolidate their forces in the Wooosung sector, 12 miles to the north of this war-shattered city.

The Japanese lines along the Lofen, Wooosung and Kiangwan sectors were broken in many places by hard fighting Chinese.
The Japanese insisted they had captured Wooosung. (Chinese disputed the claim.)

But, they added, Chinese machine gun nests had spread havoc among their troops. The stiff stand of the Chinese, Japanese asserted, also had prevented a meeting of the scattered Japanese forces.

Your Battle, Too.
Chiang Tells Powers.

NANKING, Aug. 31.—(P)— Intervention of foreign powers to halt the undeclared Sino-Japanese war was urged today by Chiang's strong man, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The premier and supreme army commander declared Chinese legions with inadequate equipment are fighting not only their own battle but also for nations who place faith in the sanctity of treaties and who have vast commercial interests in China.

"If the nations of the world recognize the menace of Japanese aggression and wish to prevent its consequences from descending on the world directly or indirectly, they should take immediate action," Chiang asserted in an interview.

Warns Foreigners.
Chiang said Chinese ports would be devastated by the warfare and foreign interests driven from the continent. He said that from Korea and Manchuria, when Japan detached them from China,
"Japan is steadily wiping out her own investments in China and destroying her own commercial opportunities in a land where wise, statesman-like, courteous treatment would undoubtedly have given her almost a monopoly on trade as well as the high respect of China's great population," he said.

Sees Grim Choice.
Whether Japan must inevitably clash with one or more western powers in the event Japan is victorious in the present conflict depends, he said, on "whether other powers are content to see China

AFL VOTES TO JOIN INTERNATIONAL GROUP WHICH IT QUIT IN '12

Council Approves Reaffiliation Since Policies Have Been Changed.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor's executive council today approved the federation's reaffiliation with the International Federation of Trade Unions.

After hearing a report from Matthew Woll, fourth vice president of the international federation's June convention in Warsaw, the council decided the AFL should resume its membership dropped in 1912.

The AFL withdrew at that time because majority action of the international conventions bound all members. William Green, federation president, said the AFL particularly objected to the international federation's stands for socialism and general strikes in the event of wars.

The international federation, Green said, now took no action without unanimous consent of convention delegates and recognized the autonomy of member organizations.

NLRB FEDERAL COURT COLLIDE OVER CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board collided violently today with a federal court—and a Pittsburgh electrical concern was caught in the jam.

The court had ordered the National Electric Products Corporation of Pittsburgh to carry out a closed-shop contract with an AFL union. The board declared the contract void and emphatically ordered the company not to carry it out.

NLRB TOLD "COMPANY" UNION FORMED TO FIGHT CIO

GADSDEN, Ala., Aug. 31.—(AP)—A witness told the National Labor Relations Board today the Etowah Rubber Workers' Association was formed, among Goodyear employees here, after one of the association organizers declared "we've got to get busy here or this damned CIO will be in."

The United Rubber Workers of America, which filed "terrorism" charges against Goodyear and brought about the NLRB hearing, contends the Etowah organization is "company dominated."

WEST VIRGINIA SUSPENSION TODAY HINTED BY GREEN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 31.—(UP)—President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, indicated tonight that the West Virginia State Federation of Labor will be suspended tomorrow because of its CIO sympathies.

The federation's executive council postponed action on revoking the West Virginia group's charter because John B. Easton, Charleston, W. V., president, and his fellow officers failed to appear at

Uncoupled Coupler Uncouples Couple

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—A Georgia automobile and its trailer parted company, Mrs. Sudie Hahn told the state police today, and that's the last she has seen of her husband, Paul, 250-pound giant. She was left in the trailer, she reported.

Mrs. Hahn asserted she and her husband, a hay and grain salesman, had journeyed to all the horse race tracks in the country in line with his business, and stopped some time ago off Ocean avenue, Revere, not far from the Suffolk Downs track.

Last Wednesday, she added, her husband unhooked the trailer, got into his machine and vanished. She described him as six feet, six inches tall and said their car bore Georgia plates. They made their home in the trailer while in Georgia, she asserted.

The meeting although they had been summoned. The council decided to give Easton one more day to be "fair," Green said.

1,000 HOTEL EMPLOYEES STRIKE AFTER FACT SIGNING

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—(AP)—One thousand service employees of the William Penn and Fort Pitt hotels struck tonight a few hours after the hotel managements signed contracts granting exclusive bargaining rights to two AFL unions.

Carl Hacker, president of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Alliance local, said the agreement had a rider permitting the management to make dismissals without union representation at hearings.

This rider, he said, "nullified the agreement for a closed shop."

TEST CASE PUSHED ON FREIGHT RATES

Continued, the "traffic density" principle is applied to rate making.

"Under this system, the centers shipping the largest volume of goods have the lowest rates," he said.

"Naturally, with less industry, the south has less shipping, and consequently higher rates.

"If the south is to progress industrially, it must have lower freight rates in order to build up a volume in shipping."

In the tale case, he said principal points competing with Georgia were Vermont and northern Virginia.

"There is no sectionalism involved in our movement to remove freight barriers," he declared.

"The principle resolves itself into one of a protective tariff for the eastern and central sections of the country against the south, the southwest and the west.

"The fundamental which we advocate transcends the details to be worked out in individual adjustments of the specific cases. The principle applies with equal force to

Champion 'Team' at Kiwanis' Father-Son Session

The champion father-son combination of the Atlanta Kiwanis Club is the Ward family, shown above at the Kiwanian "father and son" luncheon yesterday. Varney Ward brought more sons to the luncheon than any other father. With him are Edwin (seated), Stuart (standing left) and Jimmy. They heard an address by Dan Y. Sage Jr. and a program of musical numbers by others of the sons.

The rate suspension was ordered by a division of the commerce commission, he said, and the test will come when the entire commission reviews the case. The time for this review has not been set.

Jail to see the accused man. Jail officials would not permit her to see him.

She was found living with her sister at 467 Pulliam street, where she had been staying since the separation.

Residents of the house Green lived in said he had been living there for a long time, and that he had kept his rooms after his wife left him.

They said they had noticed nothing strange about Green's behavior for the past week, but could not say as to whether or not he had been home the night of the murder.

County Pushes Probe. Green was taken into custody by the city officers as county police pursued their investigation into the slaying of young Vannerson whose body was found in a nameless creek under Macon drive, off Lakewood drive.

City and county authorities had the assurance, voiced by a family spokesman, of perfect confidence in their efforts to pierce the mystery surrounding the death of the Vannerson family's youngest son.

As the double probe continued, the slain Bill Vannerson, a member of an Atlanta family whose home is at 1005 Adair street, N. E., was buried in West View cemetery following funeral services at Spring Hill yesterday morning, the Rev. Frank Van Dyke officiating.

Double Fracture. Members of the family believe he was slain at some distance from the Macon road creek, probably in an automobile, and his body dumped into the creek bed.

There was a double fracture extending to the base of the brain on the left side of his head, and his hat was crushed down on his forehead. This, and the fact that the head was pointing downstream led Coroner Paul Denoon to catalog the death as murder.

While there is a three-foot concrete guard rail on the side of the bridge under which the slain man's body was found in the shallow waters, there is a wide exposed section level, with the road at the bridge edge on both sides of the rail.

Authorities who agreed with the inquest verdict of murder pointed to the ease with which an inert body could have been pushed off the drop to the creek bed 20 feet below.

Check Movements. As far as is known, investigators have been unable to account for the slain Vannerson's movements from shortly after 7:15 o'clock Saturday night when he was seen by a hotel clerk until about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning when death was believed to have occurred.

An hour or so later, a mysterious taxicab was reported seen at the Macon creek bridge by a carrier boy going for his Sunday papers. Vannerson was known to have considerable money Saturday night, but his wallet, holding insurance premiums, money and personal papers, and $3.50 he was

Mrs. Hodges Named Colonel by Browning

NASHVILLE, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Irene H. Hodges, of Knoxville, political and personal friend of Governor Browning, is the fourth woman on his staff of colonels.

Browning appointed her today. Other women colonels are Grace Moore, the Tennessee-born singer and screen star; Mrs. R. E. L. Montcastle, of Knoxville, and Mrs. Will Clayton, of Chattanooga and Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Hodges was Knox county women's manager for Browning in his campaign last year.

McAfee Crains Dismissal Without Trial While He Was Injured.

Discharged from the fire department for alleged non-payment of debts, C. A. McAfee yesterday filed suit against the city of Atlanta for back salary and restoration of his job, asserting that he was discharged without trial and without being served with a copy of the charges against him.

The first he knew of the loss of his job, McAfee stated in his suit, was when he read it in The Constitution. McAfee claimed he was injured on duty March 25 and said he was discharged April 26 while convalescing from injuries.

B. L. Milling and Howard, Tiller and Howard are his lawyers. The suit was directed against Mayor Hartsfield, Councilman John T. Marler, chairman of the board of firemasters and other members of the board. Hearing in Fulton superior court was set for September 10.

LOCAL TALENT FILM WILL OPEN MONDAY FOR RUN OF WEEK

Showing Will Take Place at Erlanger Theater Because of Length.

Premiere showing of "Atlanta Screen Debutantes," the film built around talent uncovered in screen tests sponsored by The Constitution, will be at 8:30 o'clock next Monday night at the Erlanger theater.

Approximately 100 of the new actors and actresses will make a personal appearance on the same program. Also on the program is the play, "Broken Blossoms."

The picture was originally scheduled to open at the Rialto theater, but because it is twice as long as was originally planned, it cannot be shown on a regular movie program. Two thousand feet of film was to be used, but enough talent was found in the Atlanta area to justify 2,000 additional feet.

Each vote cast by members of the audiences during the week-long showing will count twice as much in determining which star wins the free trip to Hollywood as later ballots cast when the film is shown at each of the local Beach chain of theaters.

BELGIAN PREMIER ASKS TO BE TRIED

not endorse the government's stand. If the government's case is rejected, the cabinet will resign.

The Socialist governor of the bank, Louis Franck, possibly may resign before parliament convenes the chamber September 1, and the senate September 3, according to terms of the cabinet request as a gesture of his integrity. Franck, too, has drawn the fire of the government's Fascist opponents.

Money Not Salary.
Van Zeeland, internationally active in efforts to call a world economic conference, said any money he drew from the National Bank's special reserve fund did not represent his salary as vice-governor of the bank since he came into political office.

He resigned from the bank in April, 1935, to become premier, he said. The bank has not accepted his resignation and his place remains unfilled.

"This sum of 235,000 francs (about $8,000) presumably paid to his account since he tendered his resignation) remained intact and untouched in the accounts of the bank after my definite resignation from the bank," he declared.

"That's My Business."
"As to what I did with the money, that is my own business." The dispute began when Leon Degrelle, leader of the Rexist, Fascist, inclined, demanded that the bank be investigated. Some coalition members backing the government became alarmed.

Finance Minister Henri De Man reported after inquiry that he found everything in order.

When Van Zeeland admitted freely that he had received payments from the special bank fund—virtually a bonus for bank executives—his friend, De Man, reopened the case.

Chiang, however, asserted a firm belief China would emerge victorious from the fight.

Shanghai Closed
To U. S. Shipping
SHANGHAI, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The perils of war were aggravated tonight by an outbreak of cholera in this conflict-ridden city where Americans are stranded by a ban on American shipping.

The disease appeared in the French concession, home of most of Shanghai's American residents, and desperate efforts were made to halt its spread.

Sanitary officers of the International Settlement at the same time waged a campaign against the menace of bubonic plague.

United States naval authorities cancelled all shore leaves for men on American warships stationed here and Chinese hands were ordered off the U. S. S. Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet.

This action was taken because of the danger of the cholera and worsening Sino-Japanese hostilities.

Father of Valdostan Feared Dead at Sea

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Norman G. Harris, who disappeared from aboard the liner President Hoover yesterday, was the father of Mrs. Julian L. Briggs, member of a prominent Valdosta family.

Mrs. Briggs and her children have been evacuated from Shanghai to Manila, but Mr. Briggs, who is connected with a business in Shanghai, remained in that city.

Affidavits of fellow passengers tonight indicated Harris leaped overboard to his death yesterday shortly before this American liner was bombed by Chinese planes.

Evidence concerning the American's disappearance was taken by William Collins, clerk of the United States court in China.

Friends said he showed signs of mental distress prior to his vanishing. They blamed financial reverses caused by the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

Harris was a director of the British American Tobacco Company. He came to Shanghai in 1905 from Rochester, N. Y.

calling from Shanghai indefinitely. The American colony remained at a total of 2,000 men, women and children.

Authorities reached no immediate decision on plans for future evacuations because of the absence of suitable naval vessels. The only available one, the supply ship Gold Star Gaun, can accommodate but 60 passengers.

Coincident with the American action, an unidentified bomber attacked but did not damage the Italian-operated steamer Lung Shan near Woosung, north of Shanghai. The liner was thronged with Chinese refugees.

The bomb-scarred President Hoover himself was en route to Kobe, Japan.

Claim Woosung Captured.
Action in the undeclared war ranged in the Shanghai area from Chinese portions of the city to Woosung and 12,000 civilians were driven out of the Hongkew and Yangtzepoo sections by the Japanese in advance of a heralded "big push" against Shanghai's defenders.

Japanese authorities announced Woosung village, 12 miles north of here along the left bank of the Whangpoo river near where it joins the Yangtze, had been captured from the Chinese after a terrific barrage by land and naval artillery and planes.

They said the conquest included capture of the station of the Shanghai-Woosung railway and the Woosung forts at the mouth of the Whangpoo.

Chinese denied these assertions, countering with a statement that the Japanese instead of advancing barely were holding on in the Woosung area.

The Japanese declared they inflicted heavy casualties in taking the Woosung railway station.

Bomb Rail Station.
A Japanese force bombed Shanghai's north railway station, causing a number of casualties.

SHANGHAI CLOSURE TO BE REVOKED
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP) Naval orders forbidding American vessels to enter Shanghai will be revoked soon, informed officials predicted tonight.

Reopening the port to American commerce, it was said, would be in conformity with the State Department's standing policy of strictly maintaining all American rights in the orient, regardless of the prevailing conflict between China and Japan.

The order was issued yesterday by naval authorities after the bombing of a Dollar Line ship, the President Hoover, by a Chinese warplane.

For the bombing, the Chinese minister, Dr. Chengting T. Wang, expressed to Secretary Hull today his government's profound apologies. He offered full financial reparation and punishment for the offending pilot. The terms were said to be acceptable here.

Telling a press conference of the ambassador's visit, Secretary Hull, at the same time, was at pains to excuse the naval order closing the port to American vessels as the natural impulse of those in command at the scene of the bombing.

When the incident occurred, he said, it was to have been expected that officials on the ground would insist that merchant vessels stay out of the immediate zone for the time being.

In view of the department's known opposition to surrendering the least of American rights and privileges in China, including the right of American vessels to enter Chinese ports, the secretary's emphasis upon the phrase "for the time being" was regarded as deeply significant. Those who follow such developments closely expected that the navy would quickly rescind its order.

Seething Adjectives.
Hull went into detail in describing the Chinese ambassador's visit, and at the same time took occasion to apply some seething adjectives to the bombing of the President Hoover. He called it unlawful, inexcusable and negligent.

Hull added, however, that the United States deeply appreciated the promptness with which China accepted responsibility.

The head of the Chinese government, Hull said, took "special interest" in all matters of the incident and promised that the pilot of the Chinese airplane which attacked the Hoover would be court-martialed and severely punished.

U. S. May Order
4 Ships to China
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(UP)—The United States government tonight considered dispatching four heavy cruisers to reinforce its Asiatic fleet and thereby massing in Far Eastern waters the most formidable American armada since the late President Theodore Roosevelt sent the "white fleet" around the world.

Japanese reinforcements were reported virtually to be complete. Chinese troops in the area number some 200,000 men but the Japanese were credited with an advantage because of superior resources and equipment.

The official Central Chinese News Agency reported more than 80 civilians were killed in a raid by 28 Japanese bombers on

Developments in Chinese Conflict Are Reported From Over World

'Get the Hell Out,' General Butler Says.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP)—General Smedley D. Butler said today he thought United States citizens should "get the hell out of China and stay out."

He said he looked for an "adjustment" of the troubles in China within 60 days, but predicted the next world war would start in China and Japan.

Secret Military Pact
With Reds Reported.
HSINKING, Manchoukuo, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported today that the government of this Japanese-occupied state had obtained knowledge of a secret Chinese-Russian military pact under which Soviet arms and munitions are being supplied to China.

In return, said Domei, the Chinese government has renounced all claims to outer Mongolia.

Few Prisoners Taken
In Sino-Japanese War.
SHANGHAI, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The "prisoner of war" phase of other historic conflicts was strangely missing today from the Sino-Japanese struggle.

Although the undeclared war has already been in progress for about two months and has involved fierce fighting over a vast area, official figures today showed that captured prisoners have averaged less than one a day.

99 Missionaries
Are Unreported.
PEIPING, Aug. 31.—(AP)—American officials expressed sharp anxiety today for 99 United States missionaries in Shantung province who have not been heard from since the consulate at Tsinan, the provincial capital, was closed last Friday.

The Shantung missionaries, as well as 40 more in southern Hopeh province, were directly in the path of twin Japanese columns advancing southward from Peiping and Tientsin.

tered by Japanese soldiers after being lured to Peiping with reports China had won the Sino-Japan war.

Japanese painted the undersides of their planes black, like the markings on Chinese planes, the painting contractor said. "Then they dropped thousands of handbills saying China had won the war and urging coolies to go to Peiping. When they appeared near Peiping they were slaughtered with machine guns."

World War Possible,
Senator Pittman Says.
RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said today he believed a war in which most of Europe and Asia would be involved was a possible development of the undeclared war between China and Japan.

CIO Maritime Group
Asks Ban on Japan.
CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(UP)—The Committee for Industrial Organization's maritime conference, representing 68,000 marine workers, tonight called upon the United States government to enforce an economic embargo against Japan and declared marine workers should be paid a bonus if forced to sail in war-zone waters.

By a unanimous vote, the representatives of seven maritime unions expressed "their great sympathy with the Chinese people."

U. S. Stake in Orient Exceeds $500,000,000.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(UP)—Commerce Department officials estimated tonight that more than $500,000,000 of American investments in China and Japan are threatened unless the Sino-Japanese conflict is settled soon.

At the same time, the department published a report showing that the aggregate income from American investments abroad increased to an estimated $588,000,000 in 1936 from $521,000,000 in 1935.

American investments in China, exclusive of $50,000,000 in missionary properties, total $132,000,000. Most of it is in mercantile enterprises. Invested in Japan is $376,000,000, most of which is represented by bonds and other securities.

WOMEN WILL HONOR POPPY DAY FOUNDER

Georgia Legion Auxiliary To Place Bust of Moine Michael in Atlanta.

CORDELE, Ga., Aug. 31.—(P)—The executive board of the State American Legion Auxiliary today appointed a committee to complete arrangements for execution of a bust of Moine Michael, of Athens, originator of Poppy Day in the United States.

A committee was also appointed to place the original American Legion Auxiliary flag in Rhodes Memorial Hall, Atlanta. The bust, which sculptor Steffen Thomas is executing, will also be placed in Rhodes Hall.

Baseball Benefit.

Mrs. J. W. Oglesby announced the St. Louis Cardinals will play a spring game under auspices of the auxiliary in Atlanta, Augusta or Macon.

She said American and National leagues had expressed willingness to co-operate for the benefit of charity hospitals, mountain schools, community centers and similar work. The date and opponents for the Cardinals have not been chosen.

Mrs. Edgar C. Pullen, auxiliary president, announced appointment of Mrs. Steve Cooke as chairman of the flag committee.

Named to the bust committee were Mrs. Allen Henson, Atlanta, chairman; Mrs. J. B. Joel, Mrs. Harold Hodgson and Mrs. Carl Saye, Athens; Mrs. R. B. Thornton, Hawkinsville, and Miss Helen Estes, Gainesville.

Convention Delegates.

For delegates and alternates to the approaching New York convention, the following were selected: Delegates—Mrs. J. W. Oglesby, Atlanta; Mrs. E. D. Pullen, Cordele; Mrs. J. R. Davidson, Baldwin; Mrs. J. L. Dixon, Thomasville; Mrs. J. Mitchell, Savannah; Mrs. Frank Hadden, Albany; and Mrs. A. H. Henson and Miss Lella Summerville, Atlanta.

Alternates—Mrs. J. M. Toomey, Decatur; Mrs. W. M. Gorman, Cordele; Mrs. Helen Estes, Gainesville; Mrs. J. P. Kelly, Valdosta; Mrs. J. R. McChesney, Atlanta; Mrs. R. L. Kerah, Savannah; Mrs. M. A. Young, Easton; and Mrs. Dan H. Davis, Macon.

OLD ROAD SHOWS ARE HELD DOOMED

Theatrical Agent Also Predicts End of Vaudeville; Opens Office Here.

There is little indication that the old type of road show which was popular a few decades ago will ever be revived again, G. C. Chancellor, theatrical producer and artists' representative who has opened a booking office in Atlanta, said last night.

"The day of the road show is past," Chancellor said, "and it is just a matter of time until there will be no more vaudeville running in theaters."

Chancellor, who is a former Atlantan, having attended Georgia Tech, said he plans to bring to Atlanta the best artists that Broadway is capable of turning out.

TWITTY TO RETURN FOR LAW PRACTICE

Former State Official To End Government Service.

DUBLIN, Ga., Aug. 31.—Peter S. Twitty, former state game and fish commissioner, has announced he and Mrs. Twitty will return to Dublin to live about September 15. They have lived in Washington the past three and a half years.

In Washington, Mr. Twitty has been attorney for the real estate division of the Navy Department. He is author of a 500-page book on "Title History and Jurisdictional Status of Federal-Owned Real Estate," which has been officially adopted by the government.

Recently he was awarded the Military Medal of the Purple Heart by the War Department for "exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service" in the judge advocate general's department of the army.

Mr. Twitty holds a degree of master of laws from Georgetown University, Washington, and is a member of the bar of the supreme court of the United States.

He will resume law practice here upon his return, he said.

Girl's Curiosity Routs Thief Here

Ten-year-old Mary Fowler looked through a grocery store window last night and spotted a burglar.

The little girl, who lives at 261 Ormond street was visiting her uncle, who operates a bakery next to 36 Georgia avenue, where L. Pazol operates a small grocery.

She wandered out for a breath of air and happened to look into Pazol's window. She saw a negro crouched behind the counter. He saw her, too, and fled through the back door, leaving a neat pile of groceries and foodstuffs.

Police found no trace of the negro.

Rivers Proclaims Labor Celebration

Governor Rivers yesterday formally called upon Georgians to "unite with the hosts of labor in observing" Labor Day Monday.

"The laboring man is essential to state and national progress," he said in a proclamation, "and it is but fitting that we pay homage to the men and women who are daily laboring in all lines of industry and production."

RFC SEEKS TO AVOID PAYING CITY TAXES

Asks Federal Injunction Tying Up $10,500 Payment on Bank Stock

Suit to enjoin Atlanta from collecting $10,500 back taxes from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on preferred stock of the Fulton National Bank was filed yesterday in federal court.

Assistant City Attorney Bond Almond said the suit seeks to prevent the city collecting the tax for 1935 and 1936 taxes on an issue of $300,000 worth of stock sold the RFC in 1933 by the Fulton bank.

The government agency and the bank contend the taxes are not owed because an act of congress in March, 1936, exempted government agencies from such taxation, but the city contends the congressional act came after the taxes were due and therefore could not nullify the debt, Almond said.

A similar suit in Maryland, before the congressional act of March, 1936, went to the supreme court which held that government agencies holding such stock were subject to state taxation, Almond said. Immediately after this decision, congress acted to exempt the agency.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood set a hearing on the suit for November.

RADIO COMMISSION TO MEET ON FRIDAY

First Session Called After Appointment of Reid.

Governor Rivers yesterday called for Friday the first meeting of the newly created radio commission which was rounded out earlier in the day by the appointment of Charles S. Reid, of Atlanta, who is the chairman of the state democratic executive committee.

The Governor said Friday's meeting would be rather informal and merely to give the board members an idea of the working conditions of the commission.

The Governor is ex-officio chairman of the board. In addition to Mr. Reid the members are Senate President John B. Spivey, Speaker of the House Roy V. Harris, President M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech; Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Atlanta Constitution; and L. W. Robert Jr., secretary to the Democratic national committee.

The state owns station WGST through Georgia Tech. The station now is leased to Clarence Calhoun. A place on the radio commission was offered Mr. Calhoun some time ago but he rejected it on the ground that as lessor he might be embarrassed by passing as a board member on a lease he himself held.

DEAN PATTY RITES TO BE HELD TODAY

Journal Executive To Be Buried in Knoxville.

Final services for Dean Ward Patty, 33, promotional advertising executive with the Atlanta Journal, will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg.

Canon Charles Schilling will perform the rites, and the body will be taken to Knoxville, Tenn., for burial. Mr. Patty died Sunday at his residence, 2795 Peachtree road.

A native of Orleans, Ind., he had lived in Atlanta for several years. He was educated at the Academy of Fine Arts in Chicago.

Georgia Youths Taught Methods of Pottery Making

John Whisnant, left, of Summerville; John Fleetwood, center, of Cartersville, and John Andrews, of La Grange, showing the three processes necessary in the making of pottery at the second junior mineral industries school, now being held at the ceramics department of Georgia Tech. Yesterday's lesson was "Production of Enamelled Ware on Sheet Metal." When finished the "three Johns" will have the best vases that refractories and enamel can produce.

CERAMIC METHODS TAUGHT GROUP HERE

Georgia Boys Instructed at Tech Learn Actual Manufacture Technique.

Actual making of pottery occupied 16 enthusiastic Georgia boys yesterday at the Second Junior Mineral Industries school being held at the ceramics department of Georgia Tech.

The students applied their lessons to learning about kaolin, white wares and pottery. Today they will make glass and tomorrow they will enamel their work with permanent porcelain enamel.

For the next two weeks these boys plan to learn the why and wherefore of the mineral industries of Georgia and the south. The school is sponsored by the Georgia Tech ceramics department in conjunction with the Atlanta Rotary Club and other Rotary Clubs throughout Georgia. The clubs selected boys from their communities to send to this school, conducted by Tech professors, mineral experts and scientists. Eight days are to be spent in Tech laboratories. Following this course the boys will be taken on a tour of southern states to view the commercial applications of the most modern principles on mining and manufacture.

Places to be visited include Birmingham, Chattanooga and several cities in north Georgia.

The boys in the class are: John William Andrews, La Grange; Ed Vernon Carter, Atlanta; John Douglas Finn, Atlanta; Fred Trafton, Fleetwood, Cartersville; O. H. King, Blakely; Charles Harold Kite, Newman; Roy Phillips McLaurin, Griffin; Tom Jefferson Pendergrast, Atlanta; James Edward Randolph, Americus; Harry Clifford Savage, Atlanta; Eugene Lewis Spence, Jr., College Park; William Bryan Standifer, Blakely; Henry Gordon Weekley Jr., Atlanta; John Black Whisnant Jr., Summerville; Richard H. Wood, Marietta; Dorian Joseph Wright, Langdale, Ala.

Visitors to the school include: Fred Trafton, Bridgeport, Atlanta; Marion Murphy Brooke, Atlanta; John Wesley Cherry, Atlanta; William LeRoy Bates, Atlanta.

financing of new industries within their borders. As a further inducement, the act gives new plants a five-year exemption from taxes.

More than that, the commission serves as a sort of clearing house for industrial expansion in the state. If some company wants to take advantage of the inducements offered, the commission makes a careful survey as to the availability of labor and other factors to make sure that the factory is located in a section best suited to its needs.

Plan Described.

"In that way," Governor White explained, "we are better able to carry out our aim of balancing agriculture with industry. We don't want a concentration of industries in any one city or area. What we want to do is spread them out generally over the state—a composite development that will benefit all sections alike."

Typical of some of the new enterprises brought to the state are factories making clothes for men and women, cheese factories, creameries, manufacturers of clay products, and a dozen other lines suited to small unit operations.

Linked with the industrial commission act is a $100,000 appropriation which the legislature made available to the Governor for use at his discretion in advertising the industrial potentialities of the state. Mississippi being primarily an agricultural state, with only approximately 15 per cent of its wealth derived from industry, Governor White is determined to provide a more balanced economic picture.

Plenty of Workers.

"The availability of an abundance of efficient and intelligent labor represents one of the most important considerations in the establishment of new industries," he said. "Fortunately, with our high percentage of native Anglo-Saxon citizenship, with an absence of disturbing elements so common in foreign industrial centers, we should offer one of the chief attractions to those who are looking for new fields in which to establish their factories."

"On the other hand," he asserted, "it should be remembered that the owner of a factory must bear many inevitable losses upon the transfer of his plant to a new location. To overcome these losses and other factors, such as freight differentials, something must be offered in addition to a government and a people with industrial consciousness, and a desire for new industries. There must be a community co-operation and legislation designed to foster new investment."

CITY RUSHES PLEA ON WPA REPAIRS

Colonel Yeager was to fly to Washington last night with the city's formal application for WPA aid in the new project, and he said he hoped to have it finally approved within 10 days. Work at the auditorium in repairing the hole in the roof and strengthening the main auditorium roof will take about 60 working days, it was said. Mayor Hartsfield said the auditorium will be opened before the end of the year at any rate.

Board to Supervise.

The official board of inquiry will supervise repairs and will inspect the building on completion. It will be paid $1,950 for the job. Dillon & Lewis, architects employed to draw remodeling plans, will furnish plans for repairs and will supervise the work also, it was said.

The city already has about $5,000 set up in the auditorium account for repairs and this will be used in its share of cost. Approximately the same amount will have to be appropriated, City Comptroller B. Graham West said. The financing of Atlanta's part of the project will be brought up in regular council meeting Tuesday afternoon. (Council meets the day following Labor Day.)

Organist on Hand.

Oscar Williamson Jr., manager of the auditorium, and several policemen and firemen will be present this afternoon to show visitors throughout the entire auditorium. The mayor pointed out, incidentally, that Charles Sheldon, city organist, will play out the renovated organ at the auditorium this afternoon during open house.

Keys to Whisky Open Jail Doors

Technically, Jerry Richards, of a Forrest avenue address, had the jailhouse keys on him yesterday morning, but he didn't know it.

City Detectives John Crankshaw and J. B. King, raiding an office in a Walton street building, found a key ring on Richards.

Apparently, they had either a "hunch" or prior information, for taking the keys to a small structure behind the office building, they tried one key after another in the lock.

One fit, and the door swung open on 87 pints and eight quarts of liquor.

Richards was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct—whisky.

THOMAS ATTACKS PEACE BY ALLIANCE

Workers' Sanctions Held More Effective Than Collective Militarization.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 31.—(P)—The idea of seeking peace for democracies through alliance against dictatorships was assailed tonight by Norman Thomas, Socialist leader.

The entry of the United States into such an alliance would lead to war eventually, Thomas told the Institute of Human Relations in a prepared address.

"There are workers' sanctions against war and for peace which may be far more effective than the militarization in the theory of collective security," the socialist leader said.

At an earlier session of the institute, which is meeting at Williams College under the auspices of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, Herbert Agar, editorial writer for the Louisville Courier-Journal, declared the time was approaching when United States citizens would have to take the democratic ideal seriously or abandon it.

During the day session, Martin Quigley, publisher of the Motion Picture Herald, opposed "any scheme which involves the theater screen in propaganda of any character," and stated "the only mandate which the motion picture industry has any right to assume that it has received from the public is to produce entertainment films."

MUSEUM WILL GIVE SPECIAL COURSES

Study in Figure and Portrait Work Available.

Opportunity of special study in figure and portrait work will be available at the High Museum of Art school, Lewis P. Skidmore, director of the museum, announced yesterday.

A classroom has been set aside for these special students and a model will be posed several days in each week. Instruction will be given by Ben E. Shute, instructor of fine arts at the High Museum of Art.

Since the registration has already exceeded that of any other year in the history of the school, those still expecting to enter are urged prompt registration which may be made by phone to Hemlock 3200.

The regular three-year art course will continue as usual, opening September 4 and classes resuming September 7.

GAINESVILLE NAMES NEW CIVIC CENTER IN HONOR OF F. D. R.

President Invited To Attend Dedication Exercises, Set for November 24.

Gainesville citizens this fall will dedicate their new civic center, which has emerged from the shambles wrought by the devastating "twin-tornado" of 1936 into a model public square, naming it Roosevelt Square in honor of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A telegram urging President Roosevelt to be present at the dedication, set for November 24, was dispatched to his Hyde Park home yesterday. The telegram bore the signatures of Senator Walter F. George, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., Governor Rivers, Gainesville's mayor, H. L. Gaines, and Glenn McConnell, Hall county commission chairman, in addition to the stamp of approval of Gainesville's citizens.

Dedication of the reconstructed center as Roosevelt Square is to show the appreciation of Gainesville for the President, the telegram said, who visited the shattered city immediately after the April tornado and once threw rescue forces of United States government agencies into the devastated area.

President Roosevelt is expected to be on his way to Warm Springs at the time of the dedication this fall for a visit to the Georgia "White House."

A marble monument 12 feet high will be erected in honor of President Roosevelt and will bear on the front side of the six-foot square base the bronze likeness of the Roosevelt inaugural medal—cast by the United States mint. City and county resolutions dedicating the square to the President will be included on a bronze tablet placed on the opposite side of the monument—which on each side will have a flight of six marble steps.

Country Slickers Win in This Round

Because of a difference in requirements for traffic signals in the city and in the country, Atlanta must purchase approximately 600 stop sign poles, Police Chief M. A. Hornsby said yesterday.

The State Highway Department has agreed to place traffic signs on all city streets part of state highways, but the standard pole for the Highway Department is only five feet above ground. This can easily be seen on the open road. But the city requires an eight-foot pole, high enough to be seen over parked cars at corners. Atlanta will buy the necessary long poles and the state will install them and furnish the signs, it was said.

date for the dedication and the program for the day was made here yesterday by Edgar B. Dunlap, counsel for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and general chairman of Gainesville's committees on arrangements.

The program as announced tentatively calls for President Roosevelt's presence in Gainesville for three hours.

Governor Rivers and Congressman Wheelchel are scheduled to deliver messages of welcome, with Senator George introducing President Roosevelt. Senator Russell will unveil the monument. Beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning, the program calls for a parade, immediately after the President's arrival, through the reconstructed areas to the new courthouse square.

Special Trains.
At 1:30 o'clock there is to be a dinner for distinguished guests. It is being planned to run special trains to Gainesville for the exercises.

President Roosevelt is urged to stop over in Gainesville "for the purpose of viewing the reconstruction accomplished through your initiative and addressing the people of north Georgia," the telegram states and to witness dedication of the monument erected by a "grateful people to a humanitarian leader."

On the executive committee in charge of arrangements for the day are these Gainesville citizens: Congressman Wheelchel, A. S. Hardy, J. H. Horsch, Leslie Quintan, J. H. Reed, C. R. Hammond, H. C. Hosch, J. E. Palmer Jr., G. E. Pilgrim, Sandy Beaver, Fred Kelly, S. O. Smith, Marshall Stone, Mrs. C. B. Stovall, Dr. C. D. Wheelchel, H. H. Estes.

Struck by an automobile and knocked 75 feet on Pryor road Sunday, E. L. Betsill, city motorcycle policeman, still in Grady hospital yesterday, had a $50,000 damage suit on file in Fulton superior court against the driver of the auto, J. B. Roberts—listed at police headquarters as a resident of Yatesville, Ark.

Roberts Sunday night was in the city jail under $200 bond and notice of the suit was served upon him as he appeared in police court Monday afternoon. The suit charges Roberts with speeding, driving on the wrong side of the street at the time of the accident, and driving in a manner "negligent, careless and heedless" of the safety of others.

Betsill's petition sets out that he was well across Pryor road on the left-hand side when he was struck as he crossed from University drive. Betsill received severe lacerations and head injuries in addition to a shattered left arm which may have to be amputated, Grady attaches have said.

CIVIL SERVICE TEST MAPPED BY STATE
Labor Department Workers Paid by U. S. Involved.

Governor Rivers announced yesterday that employees of the Labor Department paid out of federal funds would be placed on civil service shortly after undergoing examinations.

The Governor said that the examinations would be conducted by a board composed of T. J. Lance, president of Young Harris College; Warren Grice, of Macon, former attorney general of Georgia; and George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor. Mrs. Arthur Brooks, of Atlanta, has been named to supervise the tests.

Governor Rivers said arrangements for the placing of the employees under civil service was worked out by Labor Commissioner T. E. Whitaker and the federal government.

The examinations are expected to start in October.

BANK LEGISLATION IS ASKED BY BUTT

Present Top on Discounting County Warrants Is Said Discriminatory.

Governor Rivers said yesterday he was considering a request from a number of state bankers in Georgia to include in his call for the coming special session of the assembly legislation permitting the state banks to discount county warrants for more than 20 per cent of their capital and surplus.

The Governor said he could not determine until later whether or not the matter would be included. He said he planned to confer with Superintendent of Banks R. E. Gormley before making a decision.

Butt Asks Action.
Meanwhile, Colonel William Butt, of Blue Ridge, vice president of the Fannin County Bank, said he had brought the matter to the attention of Governor Rivers following a ruling of Attorney General M. J. Yeomans limiting the amount of such discounted warrants to 20 per cent of the bank's capital and surplus.

State bankers contended that the ruling works a hardship on them inasmuch as national banks are not under such limitations.

"The ruling of Judge Yeomans affects not only the operation of many state banks but the fiscal policies of many of our counties," Colonel Butt pointed out.

Banks Notified.
Following the ruling of Judge Yeomans, Superintendent Gormley notified state banks that on and after January 1, 1938, the ruling will be enforced strictly.

"If the present law is not changed, it will necessarily force many of the county commissioners or ordinaries handling the finances of the counties to open accounts with the national banks of this state," Colonel Butt said. "I am calling attention to the fact that the national banking laws governing the operation of national banks, do not put any limitation whatever upon the amount of county warrants which national banks may discount and, under the ruling of the attorney general and the policy which has been announced by Mr. Gormley, the national banks of this state can discount all the county, city and school warrants they desire, without any limitation whatever but, as already stated, the state banks will be limited to 20 per cent of capital and surplus."

U. S. Employee Accused.
Declaring that the law should be amended only as it pertains to counties, Mr. Butt charged that the ruling of Judge Yeomans came after representations were made by an agent for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

"It appears that this is another step in the nationalizing and centralizing of the banking business in this country," the Blue Ridge banker asserted. "It will operate very advantageously in favor of the national banks."

The state law holds that no bank may loan more than 20 per cent of its capital and surplus to any one person, firm or corporation, and the Yeomans ruling placed the counties in the category of corporations.

TO TWO OTHER FAIRS

Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, will leave the city by plane this afternoon for Des Moines, Iowa, where he will attend the Iowa State Fair. Following the Iowa fair, Benton will visit Minneapolis and the Minnesota State Fair and return to the city Sunday afternoon.

The Southeastern Fair president will cover some 3,000 miles and will see the successive days of auto racing. He will arrive in Atlanta Sunday in time to see the finals of the first of two days of Labor Day auto racing at Lakewood park.

'Our Gang' Favorite Will Appear At Benefit for Veterans Sunday

'Freckles' Ray, erstwhile Ringleader in Antics of Screen Group, Is Appearing With Orchestra in State, Taking Time Out To Entertain Disabled Men.

"Freckles" Ray, once leader in the famous Hal Roach "Our Gang" comedies, who made the world laugh as the original freckle-faced kid, will give a benefit performance at 1 o'clock Sunday for patients at the Veterans' Administration hospital on Peachtree road.

Always ready to give his talent, he used to take time out from his work at the different studios to visit the hospitals. It was particularly for this reason that the members of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs made him their life member and that he is now the national mascot for the Disabled American World War Veterans.

FEDERAL REORGANIZATION

In the interest aroused by more spectacular proposals, the bill offered to the last congress for reorganization of the entire system of federal activity was largely overlooked by the general public. Inasmuch as this proposal is one of the important issues which will undoubtedly come up for action at the next session, there should be as complete understanding of its form and probable effect as possible.

The original bill would make possible, according to its advocates, economies in operation of the various governmental functions amounting to approximately $30,000,000 annually. This, it was admitted, was an extremely indefinite estimate, as any savings achieved would depend almost entirely, not on the bill itself, but on how the administration put its provisions into effect.

Chief criticism against the measure was based upon the charge it would give unprecedented and dangerous power to the President. It was claimed that, regardless of who might in the future occupy the White House, under this measure he would have unlimited control over every branch of federal activity and every officer and employee of the government.

It was pointed out, even, that if the bill should pass unamended and stand the supreme court test of its constitutionality, a President could declare his own office abolished and substitute any other form of governmental leadership he might desire for himself.

Senator Byrd, of Virginia, is head of a committee which, it is reported, is now drafting a substitute proposal to be submitted to congress when it reconvenes. With the assistance of the Brookings Institute, the Virginian is said to be working out a program that will avoid placing any increased power in the administration, but which will make possible an annual saving of at least $300,000,000, instead of the $30,000,000 contemplated in the original bill.

Such a saving will be an important aid in the effort which will be made to achieve the imperative goal of a balanced budget. At the same time the avoidance of additional excessive power in the hands of the President, regardless of who may hold that position in the future, is even more desirable than the economies to be effected.

The amount of saving to be achieved, while important, is a matter of minor significance compared to the prevention of too great authority in one department of the government. The original bill, according to leaders who opposed it, would have given the White House a permanent weapon not only to create a subservient congress, but to hold the entire federal government machinery in subjection.

ROTARY AND CERAMICS

The Rotary Club of Georgia is performing a valuable service for Georgia in providing scholarships for 20 boys at the second annual session of the Junior Mineral Industries School at Georgia Tech.

This school meets annually for two weeks, with its purpose to acquaint Georgians with the state's mineral resources and to interest them in the development and production of manufactured articles which may be made in Georgia from these resources.

Sponsors for the sessions are, in addition to Rotary, the Georgia Mineral Society and the mines, mining and geology division of the State Department of Natural Resources.

It has been known, since colonial days, that this state is rich in a wide variety of minerals. At various periods in Georgia history mining of various raw minerals has been, temporarily, commercially profitable. Likewise some efforts have been made at establishment of Georgia industries based upon these raw materials.

Various factors have handicapped the ceramics industry in this state to such an extent that it has never developed beyond the preliminary stage. Included among these handicaps is the unfair discriminatory railroad freight rate situation, which exacts rates from Georgia points to the chief market centers which are so much higher than those from competitive areas that the Georgia manufacturer is almost hopelessly penalized.

Another handicap has been lack of interest by the youth of the state. This is being overcome by such undertakings as the Junior Mineral Industries School, which reveals to succeeding groups of young Georgians the extent of and opportunity in Georgia minerals.

In addition to classroom lectures the school conducts its members on a tour of the mines and ceramic industrial plants of Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama. Rotary and its associated sponsors are doing a valuable work for the state, the ultimate outcome of which will be revealed only when the young beneficiaries of the sessions put their knowledge into practice in later life.

ed only when the young beneficiaries of the sessions put their knowledge into practice in later life.

TOO MANY FUGITIVES

Governor Rivers has called a conference of all warden of convict camps in Georgia to plan means of plugging the holes in the state penal system which permit so many escapes that the nation is fast being overrun by "fugitives from Georgia chain gangs."

Not a week passes that does not find new reports of successful flights by prisoners in Georgia. Experienced criminals frankly expect early opportunity to regain their freedom when sentenced to a Georgia gang and, in far too many instances find that expectation realized. In other parts of the nation a false and unfair picture of the hardships of life in a Georgia chain gang has gained wide circulation through the press, in court at extrajudicial hearings, in publicized writings and on the screen, of fugitives who, understandably, do not wish to complete the sentence imposed upon them by the law.

As a matter of fact conditions in the average chain gang compare favorably with those in most prisons in other states. There are, admittedly, a few gangs which provide the exception to this rule, but on the whole life for a convict in Georgia is about as pleasant as should be expected by a violator of the law.

The chief weakness in the Georgia system is the apparent ease of escape. With the opening of the new prison in Tattnall county and with effective means of halting the flow of fugitives away from Georgia durance*worked out at the warden's conference, the state's prison condition will be purged of its chief defects.

THE WILY CHINESE

Since the days of Bret Harte, popular conception has credited the Chinese with quick-witted sagacity and a bland ability in diplomacy. That attribute is once again demonstrated in recent incidents of the Sino-Japanese unofficial war.

Japanese aviators inexcusably attacked the British ambassador to China, far from any scene of hostilities, traveling in his own civilian automobile. The Japanese government, slower to think and still somewhat a novice in world relations, is hesitating and apparently looking for a way to sidestep the British demand for apology and redress.

An American passenger liner, the President Hoover, was struck by bombs dropped by a Chinese war plane. Immediately the Chinese government accepted full responsibility for the happening, declared it was a "most regrettable accident," and voluntarily pledged full atonement and satisfaction to the United States government.

The Chinese were courageous and astute enough to imperil even that vitally important, even if intangible oriental consideration, "face," in their move to place the Japanese, by contrast, in an unfavorable light in the eyes of the world.

Thus Chinese diplomats display again their sagacity and gain a worth-while advantage in world sympathy and prestige, while the Japanese merely add to British public resentment by their disinclination to acknowledge themselves at fault in the wounding of the ambassador.

FEWER UNEMPLOYED

While there is no absolutely dependable source for statistics on the total of unemployed workers in the United States, there is a gratifying proof that this army is rapidly shrinking in the latest report of the United States Employment Service.

This report shows that at the end of July last there were 4,938,998 persons registered with the service as active job-seekers. This is a decrease since July, 1936, of 26.7 per cent, being approximately 1,800,000 fewer than the number of registered work applicants of that date. It is less by 2,620,000 than the total for July, 1935.

While the employment service does not claim that all the unemployed are registered at its various offices, at the same time this figure does represent the bulk of the jobless who would work if they could.

The significance of the report does not lie, however, in the actual totals, but in the trend which is so clearly shown over the past two years. Industry and commerce are, evidently, rapidly reabsorbing the workers, and if the same trend continues—and there is no reason why it should not—the day is not far distant when the number of idle will approach normal proportions. There will, of course, always be some jobless individuals, but their number is shrinking so rapidly it will soon be possible to rely upon their own families for necessary assistance, without calling on local, state or federal aid.

So powerful are today's weapons of war that a slum can be created with one well-placed bomb and cleared with a second.

"Bollers used by moonshiners are selling as scrap to be converted into deadly weapons"—item. What do they mean—converted?

They never say, "What would Napoleon do if he were here?" After all, what would one Napoleon be, among so many?

"Bathing slips," says a daily paper of the garment trade, "have become more meager." Seemingly less like slips than outright blunders.

Editorial of the Day

BETTER LAY ILLUSIONS ASIDE
(From the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer.)

It's nice, of course, of Senator King to suggest that Senator Bailey is of a select list from which should be selected the next nominee for the presidency of the Democratic party.

But Senator Bailey's astuteness will quickly inform him not to have illusions on this score.

Nor the others Senator King mentions—men like Byrd and Glass, of Virginia.

Not unless there is another revolution in America that will swing the public mind of the country from its present stride away from democracy.

These men—Bailey and Byrd and Glass—are Democrats.

As such, they are out of gait with the current phobias.

These phobias are clearly in the direction of state socialism.

State socialism and democracy are not friends. They are enemies!

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

UNDECLARED WARS

In the last week, the struggle in China has become far more serious. Early in the week, two New York Times correspondents were wounded, one of them seriously, in the bombing of a department store in Shanghai. Apparently, the bombers were Chinese. Within the last three days an automobile flying the British flag was machine-gunned from the air by a Japanese plane, and the British ambassador very seriously wounded. The Japanese prime minister, Mr. Kono, has rejected the appeals of the United States and Great Britain for peace and arbitration. Mr. Kono has asserted flatly that Japan favors a comprehensive punitive campaign against the Chinese. Finally the Japanese navy has announced that it intends to blockade the China coast, stopping not only Chinese but any vessels, from whatever source, if they suspected of carrying contraband of war.

Now, all of these measures—wholesale invasion; the frank avowal that "a comprehensive punitive expedition" is planned; the announced intention to interrupt China's trade with other countries; the bombing of Americans; British and American ships in China—all these measures are being carried out without formal declaration of war. Japan has not even severed diplomatic relations with the Chinese government. And, meanwhile, the peace societies and certain senators, such as Nye and Clark, are urging President Roosevelt to apply the neutrality act which was passed by the last congress. If that act is applied the President must interrupt the shipments of arms to China and Japan; prevent any loans to either country; and may stop sending any American goods to the ports of either nation in American ships. The application of the cash-and-carry clause would clearly operate to aid Japan, since China has no merchant marine and Japan threatens to blockade her ports.

But the neutrality act leaves it up to the President to decide what constitutes a state of war. On Monday, Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Department of the senate, and Secretary of State Cordell Hull both made public statements. That of Senator Pittman was peculiarly confusing and even had in it a provocative of hilarity. He tried to explain what a state of war was. And it appears that you and I know nothing about it. It is not, he told us, an armed invasion, or "a desperate and fatal conflict between two nations." There was no indication of any instructions to the members of the senate, with or without the declaration of war.

Italy's celebration of the Spanish Insurgents' victory at Santander as a triumph of the Italian army, while she is a member of the non-intervention committee; Germany's move to extend a propaganda system through her nationals all over the world (the preposterous suggestion that the members of the Nazi party should be given diplomatic recognition in foreign countries is the latest impudence); as well as instructions to foreign citizens of German origin to fight all left parties, sow anti-Semitism and thus complicate the internal affairs of all countries in which they dwell—these things are as much a part of the picture as Japan's moves in China.

We have developed no technique for dealing with this sort of international conquest plus propaganda to stir up civil strife. Russian Communists taught it to the Fascist states—and they learned the lesson better than the Russians. They have one enormous strategic advantage over us. They are willing to risk wars. Great Britain, France and the United States continue "to deplore" and "to urge" and to point to the sanctity of treaties in a world given over to aggression and anarchy. But the time will certainly come either when the Fascist states collapse to pull the world with them, or when conquest piled on conquest will push the rest of the world to take a last and disadvantaged stand.

Mr. Stimson wanted the United States Great Britain and France to take that stand, to cry that halt! in 1931. Six long years ago. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

They are forty feeding like one..."

But 40 at once are not so often seen now in the cattle country of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, and the grazing is so miserably that heads are raised sickly in search of a better land. From Los Angeles, after a recent drive through the once famous mid-western cattle land, our friend, Bob Stapleton, of Birmingham, reports the plains pitifully bare, the streams dry and only a few straggling animals in sight where thousands used to be. "I could not help but compare our own fortunate southern lands with these desolate plains," he says, "and it made me realize that we have everything in our favor for cattle raising—climate, rainfall, productive lands, etc. We could be the greatest cattle country in the nation now. With encouragement and enthusiasm our people could be made to realize that the opportunity is here—now..."

"We have talked and toyed with the idea of something for the future farmer, but the need is a present one. With western cattle growers sold down to actual breeding stock, the hope of recovery is dim. The opportunity to 'go south' should become a national slogan."

Mr. Stapleton is right. All that stands in the way of a great southern meat and cattle industry now is lack of science and investment back off a large part of the world's stage to turn it over—not to its own inhabitants—but to a foreign aggressor.

We are caught in a dilemma which the neutrality legislation should have been able to foresee. And there is one man in the United States who must be looking at events grimly, but without surprise. He, at least, can say to all the world, "I told you so." That man is Henry Stimson, secretary of state in Hoover's cabinet.

When Japan invaded Shanghai in 1931 as part of the conquest of Manchukuo, Mr. Stimson was so simple-minded as to believe that treaties mean what they say. He wanted the United States and the League of Nations to make a common demarche, and say No. It has repeatedly been said that the League collapsed because the United States was outside it, but in that first instance of large-scale invasion it was not the League but the United States that took the lead. Sir John Simon, then British foreign minister, was icy cold. Actually, at the League, Sir John was totally unsupported later by the League investigation commissions under Lord Lytton. Mr. Stimson said then that if an undeclared war, in violation of treaties, were allowed to pass unchallenged enough to prevent it, there would be "new and more powerful attacks." Mr. Stimson was right—and right in time. From 1931 dates a whole series of treaty violations and undeclared wars, the end of which is not in sight.

What has followed since 1931 is perfectly logical: Ethiopia, Locarno, Spain, China. The world picture makes sense, though the sense is horrifying. There are three dissatisfied nations in the world who are organized on a permanent basis for footing and who have thrown to the winds recourse to any kind of international law and respect for all treaties. They are competing with nations which are trying to solve internal and external problems through deliberation, arbitration and diplomacy. These three nations have a common agreement to fight "communism" all over the world, the definition of communism being their own. They have undefined aims of conquest. They pursue these aims by 1. Intervention in internal struggles of countries which they wish to dominate. 2. Propaganda attempts to discredit democracy—since their probable opponents are democratic countries. 3. Attacks on all efforts to restore order in international trade.

Italy's celebration of the Spanish Insurgents' victory at Santander as a triumph of the Italian army, while she is a member of the non-intervention committee; Germany's move to extend a propaganda system through her nationals all over the world (the preposterous suggestion that the members of the Nazi party should be given diplomatic recognition in foreign countries is the latest impudence); as well as instructions to foreign citizens of German origin to fight all left parties, sow anti-Semitism and thus complicate the internal affairs of all countries in which they dwell—these things are as much a part of the picture as Japan's moves in China.

We have developed no technique for dealing with this sort of international conquest plus propaganda to stir up civil strife. Russian Communists taught it to the Fascist states—and they learned the lesson better than the Russians. They have one enormous strategic advantage over us. They are willing to risk wars. Great Britain, France and the United States continue "to deplore" and "to urge" and to point to the sanctity of treaties in a world given over to aggression and anarchy. But the time will certainly come either when the Fascist states collapse to pull the world with them, or when conquest piled on conquest will push the rest of the world to take a last and disadvantaged stand.

Mr. Stimson wanted the United States Great Britain and France to take that stand, to cry that halt! in 1931. Six long years ago. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK BOILER.

Natural NEW YORK, Aug. 31. Surmise Hon. H. H. Lehman, Governor of New York, Albany, N. Y.:

Dear Sir: From your recent statement regarding the federal injunction which has permitted a dog track to operate with open, illegal gambling at Mineola, L. I., I take it that you are opposed to illegal gambling, not only on the dogs but on the dice, the wheel, the box or whatever.

Well, sir, I am going to give you the surprise of your life. Saratoga, N. Y., a few miles from where you live in Albany, during the horse meeting which closed last Saturday, was one of the greatest gambling centers that this country has ever known. I wish I could see your expression as you read this, because you probably are saying, "You wouldn't kid me, would you?"

But I am not kidding, Mr. Lehman. Not only in the horse papers, but the general circulation papers, there were many references to the great gambling season that the boys were enjoying in Saratoga in August. It was a season reminiscent of the era of wonderful nonsense, and things were so open that they were even mentioned in the names and locations of the playrooms in cold print and the names of the high rollers. The fix was in, everything was right, the play was so big that the operators could afford to hire big names to go to Saratoga and blow sweet wind through brass horns or squawk sad songs about love to lure the customers into the stores.

Illegal Gambling Maybe you don't know that the illegal gambling industry thrives by the bribery and corruption of certain local politicians. Fact, though. Often when you see a name listed at some road house called a club you are safe in assuming that there is an illegal gambling house on the premises operating by the consent of local officials and the dominant local political organization, and that the price or a percentage of the profit goes for bribery.

Some of the newspapers also are stooges for the gambling houses in that they print pieces which are sheer ballyhoo for these performers and the joints in which they work, knowing that the premises are illegal gambling houses conducted by underworld characters. Some newspapers don't refer to the gambling, though. It is considered unethical to mention it, because it is generally understood to be off the record. Beat that if you can, Governor.

By the same reasoning it would be unethical to mention a stickup or a murder for fear of embarrassing some racketeer who has invited you to witness the stickup or murder.

Check-Up Don't take my word for this illegal gambling at Saratoga, Governor Lehman. You have cops at your command and friends who know the way around. You ask them and they will confirm what I have said. Or maybe you would be ashamed to admit that so much lawlessness could go on so close to your residence and the seat of the state government and the law itself can't do anything about it.

But you needn't be ashamed, Governor, because plenty of other governors before you didn't have the slightest inkling that there were gambling houses in Saratoga, just a pleasant hour's drive of a not many you know the Governor and Frank Roosevelt were accounted pretty smart men when they were governors, and this gambling was conducted in secrecy as far as they were concerned.

On the other hand, Governor, maybe you should have known this summer and during every summer that you have been in Albany, Saratoga was a great center of illegal crap games, horse rooms, roulette, faro, bird cage and other games of little or no chance. On further thought, Governor, I am uneasy by your statement that you are "advised" that thousands of dollars are wagered nightly in defiance of the state penal laws at the Mineola dog track under protection of a federal injunction restraining the local officials from doing their duty.

There wasn't any injunction to restrain the local officials from doing their duty in Saratoga right in your own neighborhood, was there?

Yours very truly,
GEORGE SPELVIN,

Talmudic Tales

By DAVID MORANTZ.

(Based upon the ancient legends and philosophy found in the Talmud and folklore of the Jewish people. From time to time David Morantz will answer questions he has been asked on the religion, customs, ceremonies, institutions, etc., of the Jews.)

QUESTIONS I'VE BEEN ASKED.
What blessing does the Jew say on eating fruit?
There are two different blessings said on eating fruit, depending upon whether it grows on the ground or on trees.
Before eating fruit that grows on trees, the following blessing is said:
Hebrew: "Boruch ah-taw Adonai El-o-hay-nu Melech ho-olom Bow-ray Pa-ree Haw-ain."
Translation: "Blessed art Thou, O Lord our God, King of the universe, who createst the fruit of the tree."

On eating fruit that grows on the ground, the following is recited:
Hebrew: "Boruch ah-taw Adonai El-o-hay-nu melech ho-olom Bow-ray Pa-ree Haw-ah-daw-maw."
Translation: "Blessed art Thou, O Lord our God, King of the universe, who createst the fruit of the earth."

By Calling All Men Gentlemen

We Merely Rob a Good Word of Its Meaning

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

If value depends on rarity, it is easy to understand the good reputation of generosity and gratitude. No other two qualities are so highly prized and seldom found. In fact, it would be difficult to prove, by any evidence acceptable to a scientist or a court of law, that they exist at all except as imaginary ideals.

The act that seems generous may be prompted by vanity or a guilty conscience. It may be the baiting of a trap. It may be a bribe offered to Heaven for the remission of sins. It may be the discharge of a hateful duty.

Only the giver can know the motive that prompts his gift, and he often fools himself.

Since generosity is a spiritual quality, the proof of it is not in an act apparently generous but in the spirit of generosity.

The wealthy man who gives a million dollars may be generous, but the gift alone does not prove it. He does not need the million and never will miss it. If you have more than you can eat, it is an act of generosity to give a crust of bread to a beggar.

True generosity, prompted by a generous spirit, robs itself to benefit others. You will find it rare.

Gratitude is also a spiritual quality and therefore difficult to recognize except by the person who feels it.

You may express gratitude for favors received, but you alone can know whether you feel grateful.

Words prove nothing, of course, and acts of gratitude may be prompted by a stiff-necked pride unwilling to remain under obligation or a servile mendacity hoping for further favors. The most vocal and eloquent gratitude is that of the professional beggar.

If a gift pleases us and we like the giver, we think we are grateful. But we like him because he is the kind of person easy to like, and we might have liked him as well without the gift. People without gratitude can be won by gifts, as all animals can be tamed by gifts. But that isn't gratitude. It is appetite.

The Pollyanna belief that everybody is capable of generosity and gratitude degrades these noble qualities as the word "friend" is degraded by applying it to every casual acquaintance.

Our spiritual qualities, like honor and compassion, developed late in the life of the race, and only persons of the highest type have the capacity for them now.

When Is Best Vacation Time?
Summer vacations are not of much value to modern workers, men or women, according to the magazine Re-Vue. Summer, according to an editorial in that publication, is the time of the year when a vacation is least needed.

In fact it is argued that the best time of summer vacations is nothing but a hangover from Victorian times and that the best time of the year for your annual holiday, if it is to do you much good, is late February or early March.

Way back in the days when everybody worked from daylight to 7 o'clock (not daylight saving time, either) in the evening, and saw very little, if any, sun, the need and the desire for a week in the mountains or at the coast in August became overwhelming. That, it is indicated, was natural and right.

Nowadays, however, with the five-day week a commonplace, with a large proportion of the citizenry able to go to some resort most any week end, with automobiles and buses and other means of rapid transportation putting mountains and seashores, metaphorically, in every backyard, there is no longer any unsatisfied craving for the summer out-of-doors. Almost anybody can keep right on working all summer and still acquire a deep tan.

Why March, Or February?
On the other hand, after a hard winter's work—business, you know, is busiest in fall and winter—we're all ready for and in need of a rest and vacation in late February or March. That is the time, research workers say, when human machines reach their lowest ebb of the year. They prove it by citing data to show that children conceived at that period of the year are, on the average, poorer quality humans than other youngsters.

So, it is argued, we all ought to work straight along in the summer time and postpone the annual two-week vacation to late winter. Maybe, Me, I'll start a campaign to make the February vacation customary—in addition to the summer holiday. Lots of good arguments available to show why men and women need rest periods twice, instead of once, a year.

Seaplane Catapults.
The Germans, in their plans for trans-Atlantic air service, are using mother ships to catapult the liners of the air from the decks, thus saving a lot of gasoline otherwise required for the take-off from the surface of the water and the climb to altitude. Also permitting the flying boats to carry greater supplies of the fuel.

It is said that one of the great German planes catapulted has a flying radius of 3,100 miles.

EDITORIALS NEED ON RATE INJUSTICE

As chairman of the board of directors of the Atlanta Freight Bureau, I would ordinarily gratefully acknowledge the splendid editorial in The Constitution concerning the rate structure under which southern industry is so terribly handicapped . . . and so, my duty is done!

As an individual, however, I am glad to see the subject matter given editorial prominence. The condition is going to be corrected when our southern newspapers stop treating the matter as interesting headlines and start giving it prominence in the editorial pages.

If a way could be found to keep the matter alive on the editorial page, the average businessman would soon become aware of the tragedy.

The real, fundamental cause of the condition remaining without remedy for the last 20 years, is that the majority of businessmen don't understand the real situation.

MARK CARS OF NEW DRIVERS

Editor Constitution: Georgia will soon be issuing automobile driver's licenses. As I understand it there will be two grades, the regular license and a "learner's" license.

This learner's license will entitle the beginner to learn on our highways—the half master of a powerful motor car on our already overcrowded and too narrow motor roads. True, they must learn somewhere; they are learning now and have been learning, but why not mark their cars, as the cars of unskilled drivers do that regular drivers can give them both wide berth and extra consideration.

So why not a foot square yellow flag, front and back, to mark all student driver cars; also let every regular driver's license revert to a learner's classification with flag marked car for six months after that driver is in an accident where the fault is his.

In other words, if we are to have good drivers and poor drivers on our highways, have them marked plainly for what they are. An unskilled or careless driver is a potential killer, or at least potential nuisance, and why not danger-mark him until his driving record or driver's examination shows him to be a capable driver.

To carry red flags would be to confuse the vehicle with trucks who carry overhanging loads so marked—so why not the yellow (peril) flag—why not?

Yours for motor modernization and moderation.

COMMENTS CONSTITUTION'S FIGHT

Editor Constitution: It is a source of much relief to southern industry that congress failed to enact the Black-Connerly bill, and I am quite sure that the constructive efforts of The Constitution have much to do with making our southern senators and representatives understand more fully, the danger of this legislation to the south.

In your editorial, "Need Any More Be Said," you pointed out the fundamental objections to this measure, and on behalf of the members of our association, I express our gratitude for your operation and assistance in opposing this measure. As you have so clearly and courageously pointed out, the bill received its strongest support from those other industrial sections of the country who are envious of our industrial progress in the south, and who would like to destroy the natural economic advantages which southern manufacturers rightfully enjoy.

I hope that when congress reconvenes, that our southern senators and representatives will maintain their opposition to this effort to handicap southern industry, and that no legislation of this kind will be enacted.

CONVICT REWEDES UNDER OWN NAME

Captured, He Remarries Wife of 2 Years

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 31.—(P)—Kenneth A. Reed, 37-year-old painter, remarried today in police headquarters the woman to whom he was married seven years ago under an assumed name and Detective Chief Frank N. Littlejohn said Reed would be turned over to Pennsylvania authorities immediately to complete a prison term.

Littlejohn said Reed, who lived under the name of Paul Colman in Rockingham, N. C., had waived extradition and was eager to "get this thing cleared up" and return to his family.

FARMER CLEARED IN DEATH OF SON

Compromise Sends Tenant to Prison for Bigamy.

BELZONI, Miss., Aug. 31.—(P)—A legal compromise today officially cleared Henry Barnett of a charge of murdering his son, but failed to reunite his divided house.

The compromise sends Barnett, a pale little half-dead tenant farmer who admits he has two wives, to the state penitentiary for eight years—not for the cotton patch death of his 11-year-old son, but on a bigamy charge.

The court's decision today, abruptly ending Barnett's scheduled trial for murder, cleared the strange case from the official records, but it left Barnett's family affairs as tangled as before.

FRIENDS DENY SON SHIELDED DEAD DAD

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(P)—An attorney's contention that a young broker went to prison to protect his dead father's reputation was challenged by friends of the family today.

Central figure in the case was Charles C. Koepke. He took over the real estate business of his father, Charles A. Koepke, in 1931, after the elder Koepke was found dead of carbon monoxide poison in a locked garage.

ATTACK-KILLER OF 3 IS SENTENCED TO DIE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—(P)—Albert Dyer was sentenced today to die as the strangler and ravisher of three little Inglewood girls.

The court denied a new trial motion for the one-time WPA crossing watchman who was convicted last Tuesday. Under California law the case automatically goes to the state supreme court.

PACIFIST GENERAL DIES AFTER BRITISH FUROR

WALTON-ON-THAMES, England, Aug. 31.—(UP)—Brigadier General F. P. Crozier, 58, brilliant soldier and recently turned pacifist whose book, "Men I Killed" created a furor, died today.

In the book Crozier described how only the threat of death to soldiers from their own officers made possible many over-the-top attacks.

The book described how Crozier personally shot a terrified and fleeing junior British officer to end a panic and stop a general retreat.

BANDITS GET $1,192 IN SHADO OF WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(P)—A robber who pointed a gun at three cashiers escaped with $1,192 tonight in a holdup at the S. W. cafeteria.

The cashiers were counting the day's receipts when the man walked to their cage, produced a gun and scooped up the cash. The robbery occurred just across the street from the treasury and not far from the White House. The robber escaped in a waiting taxi.

BOND ISSUE NEEDED TO ERECT SCHOOLS

Wells Says Method Is Only Alternative If President Is Adherent.

Floating of a county-wide bond issue was foreseen yesterday by Jere A. Wells, Fulton county school superintendent, as the only alternative to obtain funds for erection of new buildings should the county board of education's efforts to get President Roosevelt to reconsider the board's application for a PWA grant be futile.

The county board has been seeking federal funds to bear 45 percent of $280,000 needed for construction of three new school buildings to relieve overcrowded conditions in the system.

Matter To Be Pushed.

Notified Monday of the President's refusal to make the requested allotments, Wells said yesterday that the application would not be dropped. After a special meeting of the county board yesterday afternoon Wells said that the board members agreed to send a request to President Roosevelt for reconsideration of the applications.

The letter, to be signed by each member of the board, will set out the financial status of the county board—specifically pointing out that the board is not able to finance erection of the buildings without federal aid, Wells said.

President Roosevelt and PWA administrative heads had said they were not actually needed to finance construction.

Tax Boost Abandoned.

Wells said yesterday that the county board would abandon its projected recommendation that the county school tax rate be increased to 90 cents. This increase was to provide the board's part of the 55 percent of the construction costs.

"In view of the fact that the PWA grant has been refused, there is no use in raising the tax rate as had been planned—unless the applications are reconsidered and passed," Wells said. "Otherwise, the only alternative I can see is a bond issue to furnish the needed funds."

He added that if the buildings are not erected conditions will steadily grow worse and will be "twice as bad in September, 1938" as they are now.

Wells has emphasized that it will be necessary to operate on a double schedule in some of the schools this fall because of overcrowded conditions.

A law of the last legislature requires the school board to use 75 percent of its gross receipts strictly for payment of teachers' salaries. This leaves only 25 percent out of which must come janitors' salaries, maintenance costs, and finally building funds, Wells said, adding that this should indicate the board's ability to provide its own funds for the $280,000 project.

Bruce Purdue, 36, of 602 Lester street, may lose the sight of his right eye as the result of an accident with a gasoline tank truck last night.

He was taken to Grady with cuts to face and head following the collision on Lee street near Astor avenue. His car hit the tank truck, which had parked to help another.

PARDON SOUGHT

Man Convicted in Lindbergh Hoax Asks Freedom.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 31.—(P)—John Hughes Curtis, convicted of obstructing justice in the Lindbergh kidnapping case, has applied to the New Jersey state court of pardons for a complete pardon, a Newark newspaper said today.

Curtis was convicted after a week's trial on the charge that he obstructed justice by failing to turn up the actual kidnaper of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. to the state police and other authorities.

Before the trial Curtis confessed that his stories of contact with the Lindbergh kidnappers were a "hoax."

JOHN R. BRICE.

J. R. BRICE BEGINS 97TH YEAR TODAY

Gainesville's Oldest Citizen To Spend Day Quietly.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 31.—Old in years, but young in spirit, John R. Brice, Gainesville's oldest citizen, tomorrow will observe his 97th birthday quietly at his home here. The day was "officially" celebrated Sunday at a family gathering.

Though he will be moving into his 97th year, Mr. Brice's memory is keen and his faculties unimpaired. He keeps up with daily events with avid interest.

He was born September 1, 1841, what is now Dawson county. At 20 he enlisted with the Confederate army, and is the only surviving member of his company.

He came to Gainesville after the war, and for 60 years was engaged in mercantile business. He also served as a member of city council. One of his sons, J. K. Brice, has been connected with The Atlanta Constitution more than 20 years.

RAW LIQUOR TRADE SUFFERS SETBACK

Still Found in Home on Inman Avenue.

Police put a slight dent in the "cash and carry" liquor business and temporarily deprived a negro recidivist of his charged means of livelihood last night.

Raiding a house at 254 Inman avenue, Detectives Dock Sims and Robert T. Denny seized a 50-gallon drum still, heated by a charcoal brazier, 100 gallons of mash and sugar. A couple of gallons of "made last night" whisky also was found.

Neighbors said an old negro they thought was a "hermit" lived in the place. Police estimated the drum still turned out from 10 to 15 gallons of green whisky, sold directly to the "trade" nightly.

No one was home when the police called.

BANK CLEARINGS HERE SHOW GAIN

Other Sections of Country Report Decline.

Largest August bank clearings here since 1930 were reported yesterday by the Atlanta Clearing House Association, while for the same period clearings in other sections of the country showed a decline.

The clearings, considered a reliable barometer of business activity, were $223,200,000 for the past month, an increase of $5,600,000 over the same period of last year.

Yesterday's total was $5,700,000, a $500,000 increase over the corresponding day of last year.

MRS. E. RIVERS HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Skidding Car Crashes at Brookwood Station.

Mrs. E. Rivers, one of Atlanta's best known matrons, was injured yesterday when a skidding automobile struck her car at Brookwood station. Her collarbone was broken and she was bruised.

Police reported that Mrs. Rivers, whose home is on Roxboro road, was driving south on Peachtree street when another car driven by Ulysses Smith, negro, of 500 Markham street, skidded on the curve at the railroad station and hit the Rivers car.

Mrs. Rivers was taken to her home. A case of reckless driving was filed against Smith.

FOR BACKACHE KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLE

Stop Getting Up Nights and Feel Younger

Here's one good way to flush harmful waste from kidneys and stop bladder irritation that often causes scanty, burning and smarting passage.

Ask your druggist for a 25-cent box of Gold Medal Haxem Ointment Capsules—a pleasant and harmless diuretic and stimulant for weak kidneys and irritated bladder.

Bedtime getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble are backaches, puffiness, leg cramps and night urination. Get to bed early and get GOLD MEDAL—it's the genuine medicine for weak kidneys—right from Haxem in Holland.—(adv.)

CONTROL THOUGHTS OF FARMERS ASKED

Roberts Seeks Georgians' Views Before Attending South-Wide Conference.

Agricultural Commissioner Columbus Roberts yesterday called on Georgia farmers to express their ideas on the type of crop control they want congress to enact.

The commissioner, along with Market Supervisor Hamilton Ralls, prepared to attend a meeting of southern agricultural commissioners in Memphis next Friday and Saturday to discuss control problems.

"I am going to the meeting to represent Georgia farmers and to support the type legislation they want," Roberts said.

To Call Farmers.

He plans to call farmers' representatives to Atlanta October 20 to appear before a national senate committee studying agricultural needs with a view of recommending specific legislation to congress, possibly at a special session.

"The farmers of each county should hold meetings before October 20, discuss their problems, and pass resolutions asking specific plans for cotton or other crop control," he said.

"The committee obviously cannot hear all farmers of the state, but with written recommendations, all farmers can put in their recommendations."

Part of the senate agricultural committee is touring the south to study cotton and tobacco problems, while another section is going into the grain belt. The two will meet in Memphis after their tours, he said, to draft definite recommendations.

Favors Control.

Expressing his "personal views," Roberts said he regarded control a "necessary element in any effective program of price support for agricultural products."

He said also he did not favor a system which non-participants in a production control program suffered penalties, but would like a system in which participants were paid on a graduated scale to insure lack of harm from action of those not taking part in the program.

Likewise, he said the agricultural situation in his judgment justified a special session of congress for prompt control legislation.

EXTRA SESSION FORECAST IN CONFERENCE CALL

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 31.—(UP)—Agricultural commissioners from 12 southern states, business leaders and farmers will meet here Friday and Saturday in a round-table discussion of the crop control program schedule to be enacted in the next session of congress.

Harry Wilson, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture, and C. C. Hanson, Washington, secretary of the Association of Southern Commissioners of Agriculture, issued invitations to cotton men in Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas.

Hanson, in letters to local cotton officials, said the meeting was called at this early date "due to the general belief that a special session of congress will be called in November" to consider crop control legislation.

BANK CLEARINGS HERE SHOW GAIN

Other Sections of Country Report Decline.

Largest August bank clearings here since 1930 were reported yesterday by the Atlanta Clearing House Association, while for the same period clearings in other sections of the country showed a decline.

The clearings, considered a reliable barometer of business activity, were $223,200,000 for the past month, an increase of $5,600,000 over the same period of last year.

Yesterday's total was $5,700,000, a $500,000 increase over the corresponding day of last year.

MRS. E. RIVERS HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Skidding Car Crashes at Brookwood Station.

Mrs. E. Rivers, one of Atlanta's best known matrons, was injured yesterday when a skidding automobile struck her car at Brookwood station. Her collarbone was broken and she was bruised.

Police reported that Mrs. Rivers, whose home is on Roxboro road, was driving south on Peachtree street when another car driven by Ulysses Smith, negro, of 500 Markham street, skidded on the curve at the railroad station and hit the Rivers car.

Mrs. Rivers was taken to her home. A case of reckless driving was filed against Smith.

Stop Getting Up Nights and Feel Younger

Here's one good way to flush harmful waste from kidneys and stop bladder irritation that often causes scanty, burning and smarting passage.

Ask your druggist for a 25-cent box of Gold Medal Haxem Ointment Capsules—a pleasant and harmless diuretic and stimulant for weak kidneys and irritated bladder.

Bedtime getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble are backaches, puffiness, leg cramps and night urination. Get to bed early and get GOLD MEDAL—it's the genuine medicine for weak kidneys—right from Haxem in Holland.—(adv.)

Light Fantastic On Anniversary Aim at Techwood

Techno dwellers will celebrate the first anniversary of their tenancy in the PWA-built housing project tonight with a monster street dance and carnival.

Police permission has been obtained to rope off a block on Merritts avenue adjoining the buildings to serve as a "ballroom" for the dancers.

If rain should come, sponsors said, the celebration will have to be postponed until the first fair night. They have rain at Techwood that really is rain, water backing up as far as the steps to the buildings during heavy cloudbursts.

The carnival starts at 7 o'clock at night, and admission is free to the public. The dance, which follows at 9 o'clock, will cost 25 cents a person, with music furnished by Louis Ridley's orchestra.

FIRST LADY, SON TO BE SPEAKERS

President Also May Appear on Forum Program.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(P)—The New York Herald Tribune announced tonight Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and her son, James, the President's secretary, would be among the 40-odd speakers at its seventh annual forum on current problems here October 4-5.

The newspaper said President Roosevelt also may speak at the meetings which will attract a national representation of organized women, organized youth and student and graduate delegates from 150 colleges and universities.

The younger Roosevelt will speak before a group discussing "The Responsibilities of the Younger Statesmen."

James G. Stahlman, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, will be the keynote of a session devoted to "The Status of Free Speech."

NONHOSTILE VIEW AGREED ON IN SUIT

County School Board Announces Attitude in Case Testing Marriage Rule.

Fulton county board of education yesterday agreed to assume a nonhostile attitude in regard to the suit of Marie Long, whose signed contract was refused by Jere A. Wells, school superintendent, because she had attached a notation throwing into question the legality of certain terms of the board's contract.

Miss Long had been given until August 10 to sign the contract as drawn up, but Monday was granted a court order temporarily restraining the board from carrying out her removal from the school system for failure to sign the contract.

Provisions and rules of the county board do not conflict with state laws, members of the board believe, Wells said yesterday. He added that the board has not and did not intend to pass rules conflicting with the state civil service law for teachers.

However, if the court finds that board rulings do conflict, he will accept court directions without any hostile attitude toward Miss Long, Wells said.

The Center Hill school teacher's petition pointed out that she had attached a notation to the contract she did sign to the effect that wherever the terms were in conflict with state laws—particularly the board's ruling that marriage automatically ousts any teacher—those terms would not be binding upon her.

NAZI WOMEN MUST WORK.

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—(UP)—A decree providing compulsory labor service for all German women will be announced during the Nazi party congress at Nuremberg next month, it was learned tonight.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

Mrs. Du Pays smiled crookedly. "That man! He's utterly ruthless! No emotion in his soul. Handsome, yes. But he's out to marry a fortune. He'll not marry Virginia now."

How well Velma knew this. She turned quickly to her lawyer, asked, "What must we do next?"

"Sign several papers—but there is no rush."

"I'd like to get everything settled soon, if you don't mind. I'll be down to your office bright and early in the morning."

So it was settled that late afternoon in Madeline Brooks' library. Velma parted from her two staunch friends like a girl walking on air. Never again need she worry about her daily bread.

However, there was much for her to accomplish. So much that it made her head swim just to think about it. Somehow, she must rescue Tom Orville from the clutches of the law—and Louise Clark. She had already formulated a plan. If it succeeded, all would be well. If not, given enough money, she might evolve another way.

She had again flung aside her recent decision to allow Tom to go his own way. Somehow, she could not give him up.

soon as possible. She had adorned the high spots of her old social world long enough, and there were far more important things for her to do for the present. She had become entangled in a battle which she must fight alone.

Even though Tom seemed to have a peculiar, uncouth strain in his personality, forcing him to be in strange spots with strange people, the Tom she knew best was far removed from all that. He was gentle, refined, yet purposeful. She had a firm conviction, that if she could get at the bottom of his Jekyll and Hyde existence, she could unravel all the troublesome knots.

She signed a great many legal papers for Ruggles Capp, promising not to take any more secret trips where he could not immediately locate her, went through a fearful assault with Millie over her leaving, and gave the white orchids sent by Flanders Smith to the elated Donna, who would wear them at the policemen's ball that evening.

In no time at all, she was hugging and kissing Millie in the airport station, then waving her goodbye from within the big graceful airplane, as it taxied across the field for the take-off. She drew a long quivering breath of relief when it sailed into a cold blue mid-afternoon sky. She would arrive in Carryville for dinner.

Upon reaching her old room in the Y. W. C. A. she called Louise.

Louise was instantly on the defensive. She said coolly, "Oh, yes—Velma. This is quite an honor—hearing from you."

"Louise! I must see you at once!"

"You mean—what about?"

Louise's voice sounded strained.

"I can't explain over the phone. When and where can we meet?"

"I couldn't see you until tomorrow."

"In the morning?"

"No, I've a beauty parlor engagement, then a luncheon. I really have no time for—"

"Louise—you must see me. It's important."

"Oh," came faintly from Louise.

There was fear in her voice. How could she be afraid when up to now she had been winning, point by point, in her fight to take Tom from her?

"Well—how about it?" Velma asked, trying to keep her voice even.

Louise replied sullenly, "Oh, all right—if I must." Again there was that impression of fear in her voice.

"I'll meet you at the Clayton grill at 1:30 for luncheon tomorrow," said Velma.

"It's a date," came grudgingly from Louise as she hung up the receiver without saying good-bye.

The utterly exhausted Velma went to bed early that night and slept late the following morning. She had considered taking a suite in a downtown hotel, but finally decided that remaining here in these modest quarters best suited her purpose for the present.

It was nearly noon after she had bathed, dressed, and had breakfast. She must see Mae Forland as soon as possible and tell her that she had lost a model. She would have to hurry if she were to see her before meeting Louise.

She rode downtown in a taxi, glad that it was now no extravagance.

Mae was preparing to go out to lunch when Velma entered the shop. She paused in the act of pulling a late model velour hat over her henna waves.

"Why, Velma, you darling!" she exclaimed warmly. "Thank heaven, you're back! I've been lost without you! Twenty formal came from New York this morning. I've put in a few hats, too—to set off some stunning dressy coats. Oh, you'll be wild over them."

"Miss Forland," interrupted Velma, as pretty as a picture in a long pink coat, "I'm not coming back. That is—not permanently."

Mae Forland's thin face went white. Her gray eyes were indignant. "Well, I must say, Velma—"

"—you see, I don't have to support myself any longer." "You've gotten married?" But why didn't you give me an inkling of it? It leaves me in a tight place with—"

"I'm not married, Miss Forland. I've an income from my father's estate. Quite unexpected—but acceptable. I'll stay with you, of course, until you find some one else."

Miss Forland relaxed into a smile. "If you aren't the lucky girl, I'm so glad for you. I would not work, either, if I didn't have to. I turned down an application this very morning from a good-looking girl because I thought you'd be back. Let's go phone her."

Velma followed Miss Forland to her office where her resignation was soon pleasantly adjusted. The good-looking girl would come to model in the morning and was delighted to get the position. Velma was now free to rush away to keep her appointment with Louise.

Prices at the Clayton grill were reasonable; consequently it was not fashionable. Velma knew that Louise would think she had suggested lunching here because of economy when, as a matter of fact her income was now twice that of the Clark girls combined.

There were brief moments when it was slightly overwhelming and a little heady to think of all that this sudden affluence opened up to her, although as yet it had not made her hilariously happy. It was all because of this foolish thing called love.

Oh, why did she insist upon being in love? Insist! She smiled wryly. Why, it had been unavoidable. Life surely had tricked her into love.

Louise, in a black suit trimmed with ermine, evidently appraised Velma's rich pink coat as she laid it over the back of her chair. While seeming not to, Louise also admired Velma's knitted taupe frock, the saucy little pink cap perched on her bright curls.

They sat at a small table in a secluded corner where they could talk undisturbed. Louise was fidgeting with a menu card. "I'm not hungry," she whined. "What's this all about, anyway?"

"After we've ordered, I'll explain. Here comes the waiter."

SAVED BY CARIBS.
The little sloop "Betsy," of 80 tons burden, was sailing from Barbados to Dutch Guiana. Aboard was a cargo of livestock.

First Mate Williams reached the rowboat and so did the captain and two sailors.

A fierce wind arose, and heavy waves. Captain Philip Aubin had gone through many a storm, and was not afraid. Chatting with the first mate, he did not dream of the trouble in store. Suddenly the vessel turned broadside to the windward, and all efforts to turn her back were in vain. Something had gone wrong with the rudder.

Great waves broke over the deck, and some of the nine sailors were drowned. The captain seized a hatchet, and cut away the ropes leading from the masthead. By so doing, he hoped to keep the vessel from upsetting, but it was no use. In a few moments she turned over, and her masts and sails touched the water.

Only one rowboat had been aboard the wrecked "Betsy," and it had slipped into the water, bottom up. First Mate Williams reached the rowboat, and so did the captain and two sailors. With much effort they turned it right side up, and got in.

In a moment a large hole was seen in the bottom. One of the sailors plugged it up as well as he could with his shirt.

The four men had no oars, and no mast or sail. They drifted with the waves, and in a little while had their last sight of the "Betsy."

One of the sailors had a good-sized knife, and with this a mast was carved from a plank taken from the inner lining of the boat. Then sails were made from pieces of clothing, and the captain steered toward what he believed to be the nearest land, about 130 miles away.

While the captain sailed the boat, the others took turns bailing out water. The journey lasted eight days. There was little food aboard, and the only fresh water came from showers. The two sailors died a few hours before land was reached.

Aubin and Williams stepped on the beach of the island of Tobago in the middle of the night. In the morning they were seen by an old Carib Indian and his two sons. The Indians took them to their village, and gave them soup. Captain Aubin had been badly bruised in the wreck, and had hurt one of his hips. He was given the only hammock in the village. His wounds were cleansed and oil from the tail of a soldier-crab was placed on them.

For nine weeks, the white men were kindly treated by the Caribs. Then an English ship came to the island and rescued them. In later years, Captain Aubin wrote an account of his adventures. He said he would gladly have shed his blood to be of help to his dear friends, the Caribs.

PROSPERITY NOTE SOUNDED IN REPORT BY FEDERAL BANK

Georgia Farm Income Up
$7,000,000 From Last Year to $47,208,000.

Prosperity in Atlanta's trade area during the first seven months of this year was the keynote of the monthly report issued yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta. The report covers the six states, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Farm income in Georgia for the first six months of this year increased seven million dollars over the same period last year. The income this year was $47,208,000 for the six months, as compared with $40,287,000 for the same period last year.

Retail sales for July were 3 per cent greater than for the same period last year, although there was a slight decrease in business from June to July. Wholesale trade in July was 6.1 per cent greater than the preceding year and the January-July total was 21.4 per cent larger than the same span in 1936. The daily average of sales of general merchandise in small

Crashes Here Show Decrease in August

Marked decrease in traffic deaths and injuries during August was credited yesterday to vigorous campaigning against traffic law breaches and inflexible attitude against "filing" by Captain Jack Malcom, head of the police traffic squad.

There were only two automobile fatalities during August, three fewer than in July and in August last year, 115 persons were injured, compared to 117 in July.

Police investigated 354 accidents in August against 420 in July.

Traffic fatalities within Atlanta city limits this year have been 30 so far against 49 in the comparable period of last year.

Deaths were 10.1 greater than last year.

June receipts from the sale of principal farm products, including livestock and livestock products, were 23.7 per cent greater than a year ago, but government payments were substantially less. A cotton crop of 10.2 per cent larger than 1936 is predicted for the six states of the Federal Reserve District, according to the August 9 Department of Agriculture estimate. The government estimate later drove down cotton prices.

Other Crops Gained.

Other crops which joined cotton in an upward yield swing are corn, 15.5 per cent; oats, 24.9 per cent; wheat, 25 per cent; tame hay, 16.6 per cent; apples, 77.3 per cent; potatoes, 42.8 per cent; sweet potatoes, 16.2 per cent, and rice in Louisiana, 2.3 per cent.

The report showed that contracts awarded the six states in the district for business and residential structures totaled $33,983,000 for July as compared with $22,229,000 during June. The value of building permits increased 5.8 per cent but was 22.3 per cent less than the July, 1936, total—largest for any month since April, 1929.

Payrolls Decline.

Employment and payrolls of 5,900 firms in the district declined slightly from May to June.

Although cotton consumption declined in July, it was the largest in history for the year ending July 31. In that period cottonseed oil mill operations were at a level of 28 per cent greater than the 1935-36 season.

Coal consumption in Alabama and Tennessee averaged about the same for July as in June, but was larger than a year ago by 17 per cent in Alabama and 21 per cent in Tennessee, that report showed.

Demand for lumber increased in the latter part of July and pig iron in Alabama increased 10.8 per cent in July to a point 68 per cent greater than a year ago.

T. L. CHAPPELLE, RAILROAD MAN, DIES

Southern Employe Had Been Ill For Year.

T. L. Chappelle, for 40 years an employe of the Southern Railway, died at 7:30 o'clock last night at the home, 750 Piedmont avenue. He had been in poor health more than a year following his return from Knoxville, Tenn.

Mr. Chappelle, who would have been eligible for pension on September 15, was for 25 years chief agent at Inman Yards. In 1920 he was transferred to Knoxville, remaining there until 1935, when he returned to Atlanta.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. R. J. Rutledge; two sons, Roy S. Chappelle, Knoxville, and T. L. Chappelle Jr., of Atlanta; three sisters, Mrs. J. C. Shivers, Mrs. Virginia Bradford and Mrs. Emerson Bush, the latter of Jacksonville, Mich.; three brothers, Jesse and J. L. Chappelle, and Adolph Chappelle, the latter of Wilton, Alabama.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Sons.

FIFTH DISTRICT MASONS CONVENE TOMORROW

The thirty-third annual convention of the Fifth District Masons, F. & A. M., will be held in Decatur at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Masonic temple, Pythagoras Lodge No. 41 will act as host.

The district is composed of 63 lodges located in Fulton, DeKalb, Douglas and Rockdale counties. Judge Virlyn B. Moore, of Fulton superior court, will be the principal speaker. Robert McMillen, grand master of Masons for Georgia, will also address the meeting.

NEIGHBOR KILLS GIRL ON SUDDEN IMPULSE

Father of Four Crushes Child's Skull With Auto Crank.

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—(P)—A father of four children muttered "I must have been crazy" today as he told Assistant Prosecutor Ricca he clubbed to death the 10-year-old daughter of a former neighbor who had considered him a friend.

Joseph Jacobs, 45, the confessed slayer, led police to the city's outskirts where weeds hid the body of Evelyn Mack, the victim. Jacobs was arrested this morning on the Ambassador bridge leading to Canada.

This child's skull was crushed. Jacobs, in statements attributed to him by police and the assistant prosecutor, said he struck her three times with an automobile crank. Deputy Coroner Stawke said the child had not been assaulted.

Jacobs insisted there was no motive except a sudden impulse he could not explain. His wife, Eva, and a 21-year-old daughter said he had been subject to irrational spells since the death of a daughter nine years ago. Mrs. Jacobs said he had acted strangely since he visited his daughter's grave in Windsor, Ont., a few days ago.

Mrs. Mack, seriously ill, and Mrs. Jacobs consoled each other.

HEBERT EXECUTORS WIN TAX APPEAL

Redetermination of Deficiency Ordered by Board.

The First National Bank of Atlanta and Mrs. Madeline W. Hebert, of Atlanta, executors of the estate of Paul Octave Hebert, won a deficiency hearing before the United States Board of Tax Appeals in Washington yesterday.

The board ordered the Bureau of Internal Revenue to redetermine a $9,433 deficiency in estate taxes assessed against the executors.

The board held that the bureau erred in including in the gross estate $50,000 of bonds transferred as a gift by the decedent and in disallowing $34,139 deducted as charitable bequests.

"Cap" Rainey Bids Goodbye to Railroad

Conductor 53 Years on Rails, Signs For His Last "31 Order"

Thomas A. Rainey Retires To Life of Ease on Norcross Farm After Half-Century of Thrills; Tells Progress of Travel Since Boyhood.

After 53 years as a railroad man, Thomas A. Rainey, Southern railway conductor, yesterday signed for his last "31 order" and received a "clearance card" to retire to a life of ease at his home in Norcross, Ga.

The semaphore of life from now on will be green, denoting a clear track ahead, the veteran railroader said as he stepped from No. 29, the Southern railway's crack flyer operating between New York and New Orleans.

"Cap" Rainey, as he is known by fellow railroaders, is known by Atlanta and Greenville, S. C., told of his future plans after he had "registered in" for his last time. He plans to live with his wife at their home in Norcross and to manage a large farm which he owns a few miles away.

He and Mrs. Rainey have been married 46 years and both are looking forward to celebrating their golden wedding anniversary in April, 1940.

The Raineys have four children, three daughters and a son. A daughter, Frances, now Mrs. Carroll McDaniel, whose husband is a nephew of former Mayor Key of Atlanta, resides in Jacksonville. She for many years was a teacher at Agnes Scott College.

Another daughter, Edna Rainey, is now employed as a teacher at the North Avenue school in Norcross. The son, Nesbit Rainey, attended Tech High school in Atlanta.

"Cap" Rainey began his railroad career on August 28, 1884, as a flagman on the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia railway, now a part of the Southern railway system. He came to the Richmond & Danville railway, now also a part of the Southern system, as a flagman on December 2, 1887.

In August, 1888, he was made a conductor and held this post until his retirement on pension yesterday.

For 33 years "Cap" Rainey has been a passenger conductor. In looking back over his 53 years' experiences, "Cap" Rainey recounted the modern improvements that have taken place and in many instances in the face of much opposition.

He said engineers and experts of the day fought bitterly the installation of electric headlights on locomotives.

Land Brotherhoods.

He gave the railway brotherhoods much credit for the betterment of railway services, declaring they fought years and years for many of the present-day appliances, including stokers, automatic couplings and signal appliances.

The old coal or wood-burning stoves in the flimsy wooden coaches have given way to steam heat and air-conditioned coaches, dining cars and Pullmans, "and it's a pleasure to railroad these days," he said, and added:

"I wish that I were younger so that I might enjoy to the fullest extent the modern-day railroading. We took it the 'hard way' and now that things have been made 'soft' I am stepping down for the younger men. But I have no regrets. I now can ride in velvet without worry and without watching out for the red semaphore ahead."

Members of the train crew, including J. P. Wooten, veteran engineer, 339 Fourth avenue, N. E., Atlanta, for many years "Cap" Rainey's engine pilot, officials of the division and fellow workers, were on hand as No. 29 pulled in yesterday to wish the veteran conductor many years of happiness and prosperity.

SHIP CREW OF 54 ILL; AID IS SOUGHT IN VAIN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 31.—(UP)—Coast guard radiomen sought tonight to establish contact with the steamship Betty, whose crew of 54 Chinese reportedly were seriously sick with a stomach ailment.

Unable to ascertain the vessel's position, the coast guard could not dispatch amphibians to her assistance.

The next five leaders in point of total sales were Douglas, Moultrie, Nashville, Blackshear and Vidalia.

In total value of sales, after Valdosta and Tifton, were Nashville, Blackshear, Douglas, Moultrie and Vidalia. Last year the order was Tifton, Valdosta, Nashville, Douglas, Moultrie, Blackshear and Vidalia.

High Average Price.

This year's highest average price, 21.49 cents, paid at Waycross, contrasted with last year's top of 23.44 cents, paid at Nashville. At Blackshear, where 7,361,078 pounds were sold, the second highest average price, 21.14 cents was paid.

The 3,719,231 pounds of non-Georgia-grown tobacco sold in the state's 16 markets brought this year's total sales to $3,242,761 and total revenue to $16,298,736.07.

WRITER'S RELEASE IN SPAIN FORECAST

Former American Reported Getting Good Treatment in Prison.

By JAMES MAXTON.
(Copyright, 1937, by The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(By Wire)—I have just returned to London from Valencia where I saw J. M. Escuder, widely known former New York newspaperman, and the other imprisoned members of the P. O. U. M. On the whole, they are being very well treated and none has any complaint to make.

I talked principally with Escuder, since he was the only one who spoke English and I could not speak Spanish. I was tremendously impressed by the spirit of optimism of the men in prison. They did not show the faintest indication of nervousness.

From others I heard of the spirit of devotion displayed by Escuder at the time of his arrest. When the building of La Batalla (P. O. U. M. newspaper) was invaded by the police, Escuder was not there, and although he was advised to disappear, he refused to do so and allowed himself to be arrested, saying to the police, "Take me, but leave my staff alone. This was done and Escuder was arrested in spite of the efforts of his staff."

It is now understood that other P. O. U. M. prisoners are trying to persuade

Climbing Crackers Take Two Games From Smokies, 3-2, 2-1

Max Schmeling, Very Pleased, Sees Farr Fight Joe Louis

From the word supercilious, meaning of or pertaining to the eyebrow, comes the word supercilious. The old hoisted eyebrows indicate haughty or amused contempt.

The German battler said, after he had knocked out Joe Louis, that he watched his early fights and "saw some things." He saw that Joe Louis always feinted three times before jabbing. So at the first feint Max Schmeling stepped right inside and belted Joe Louis on the jaw with his right. And that right is Max Schmeling's Sunday punch.

Jacobs is Schmeling's American manager. He "lifted" the German from another manager when the two arrived in America. It was Jacobs who won the title for Schmeling. The German, hit low by Jack Sharkey, could have got up. Joe Jacobs hopped into the ring, shouting to him to stay down. Before the confused judges knew what had happened, Joe Jacobs had convinced them his man had been fouled and was the winner of the world's heavyweight championship. They so voted. Schmeling beat W. L. Stribling. After that his path was mostly downhill until one night when they brought a has-been back to make a holiday for young Joe Louis. He knocked out Louis in the 12th to cause even more surprise than Tommy Farr caused by carrying the fight to Louis and staying the 15 rounds. No one ever accused Max Schmeling of lacking courage or intelligence. He isn't missing anything, as the picture demonstrates. And are those eyebrows up!

The big question is now—who fights who in October? They will try to match Schmeling and Farr. Schmeling has said he will fight Louis or not at all. Money, which talks strongest of all, will decide it.

TOMMY FARR.

Tommy Farr collected $60,000 for his end of the Louis fight. His manager will take at least 30 per cent. Uncle Sam and John Bull will have a whack at it in taxes. Farr should get back home with $30,000. Perhaps a bit more.

The Welshman was given a rather sorry deal by too many of the boxing writers. They made a great point of his "tightness" with money.

It seemed to me Farr had the perfect answer. "I came up the hard way," he said. "I worked in the mines. I've known what it was to be hungry and to see my family hungry. I know what money can buy. So I don't spend mine."

Harry Salsinger, the Detroit News' justly well-known sports editor, has been watching fighters for more than 30 years.

He recalled two stories of Tom Sharkey, the old-timer who was a stumbling block of unusual size in the path of heavyweights of his day. He, too, was "tight" with his money. Someone circulated the story that he liked music. A reporter went to him and asked him his favorite tunes.

"The tinkle of the cash register in me saloon," said Sharkey.

He was the originator of the story, since credited to a famous actor of 20 years ago. Sharkey ordered a lobster in a Broadway restaurant. When the waiter brought it to the table one of the large claws was missing.

"Where's that claw?" asked Sharkey, who wanted his money's worth.

"He lost it in a fight," said the waiter.

"Take it back and bring me the winner," said Sharkey.

BEN BROWN'S VICTORY.

While Tommy Farr and Joe Louis were fighting, Ben Brown, Atlanta ring star, was making the best fight of his career. He scored a technical knockout over Hobo-Williams in a Baltimore ring.

Williams recently gave Middleweight Champion Freddie Steele a tough battle. He was a favorite over Brown.

Now and then Brown indicates he may be on the way to a position in middleweight ranks. His last showing here was disappointing, largely because fight fans had underestimated Battling Burroughs, his opponent. This victory over Williams is Brown's most significant achievement. It is just possible he and Steele may fight in Miami this winter.

Jackets, Bulldogs Begin Grid Work Today

ONLY 11 SOPHS ON TECH SQUAD; 31 EXPERIENCED

Coach Alex Begins 18th Season; Several Line Positions 'Open.'

By JACK TROY. With 31 players who come under the heading of "experienced" and 11 others who are sophomores, not to mention a group of B team hopefuls, some 70 Georgia Tech football prospects will rally to the annual call to practice this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

W. A. Alexander, dean of southern coaches, will begin his 18th season at the Flats today. And his able assistants, Bobby Dodd, backfield; Mack Tharpe, line; Norris Dean, freshmen; and Roy McArthur, B team, are ready and willing to buckle down to work.

Tech starts practice today with the least number of sophomores of any team in the Conference—11. Tech, according to a checkup, is second only to Mississippi State in the number of players listed as "experienced." Tech has 31, as mentioned; Mississippi State has thirty-four.

SIX MEN LOST. Other statistics reveal that only Kentucky lost as few lettermen as did Tech. The Jackets were deprived of six by graduation, while the Wildcats lost only five.

Tech, on the other hand, won't be able to command the manpower of such schools as Louisiana State, Tennessee, Alabama and a couple of others.

None of the pre-season polls has listed Tech in the first flight. So the Jackets may start work foot-loose and fancy free.

It will be interesting to see how the players respond in the early days of practice. There was virtually no spring practice for the majority of the experienced players.

SOMETHING NEW.

They were turned loose to engage in other sports—baseball, track, et cetera. So to many of the players it has been quite a spell since a shoulder pad was worn.

Alumni are invited to attend the drills at Rose Bowl field. They will be admitted upon presentation of a card.

Positions which seem unsettled on the Jacket squad before the season starts include center, one tackle, possibly one guard and, perhaps, one end.

190-POUND LINE.

'It's figured that Tech, at best, will be able to present a first-string line that will average 190. It will be a mobile, fast forward wall that should fit well into the scheme of passes, plus a modicum of power.

The Jackets certainly are going to continue using their razzle-dazzle style of passing, with a lot of emphasis, too, placed on the running game. Sims will carry the ball more than this fall.

TACKLES—Cushing, Glenn; Wood, General; Lackey, Tazani; Abbott, Red; Bynum, Henry; Kelly, Hard Luck; Paine, Red.

ENDS—Jordan, Bill; Jones, Ed; Morgan, Jim; Smith, George; Thrash, Gay; Isen, Robert; Clay, Alton; Allen, Tom.

FULLBACKS—Collins, Red; Murphy, Bruce; Anderson, Junior; Gilmer, Bud.

QUARTERBACKS—Sims, Fletcher; Edwards, Scrapy; Brooks, Tommy; Deers, Robb.

RIGHT HALFBACKS—Konecny, Ed; Dutch, Ester; Howard, Reed; Bruce, Gibson, Billy.

Bulldogs Report At 9:30 A. M. Today.

By FELTON GORDON.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 31.—The advance guard of Georgia's football squad was filing into the city today for the inauguration of the training of season here tomorrow.

The bronzed detail of Bulldogs converged on the city from throughout the south. All were in good physical trim for the tough grind that will follow after the early days.

Coach Harry Mehre will start his tenth season as head mentor at the University of Georgia.

The initial session will be held at 9:30 o'clock when equipment will be issued and lockers assigned.

Prospectus of the season will be given by the coaches at this time. The afternoon practice will open at 4 o'clock.

Early arrivals included Bill Badgett, of Knoxville, Tenn., who has worked in Atlanta this summer. Badgett, a bone-crushing tackle, weighed in at 244 after a summer season of work.

Sanford (Coot) Vandiver, of Atlanta, halfback, is up to 180, a gain of some five pounds. Pete Tinsley, star guard, who tips the beam at around 200, is expected to be a standout throughout the season. Marvin Gillespie, Elberston, end, is weighing around 175, about his usual weight. Bruce Long, Knoxville, Tenn., guard weighs in at around 227.

SEASON OPENS.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 31.—(P)—Nimrods of North Carolina made preparations today for the opening tomorrow of the hunting season for rails, gallinules, sora and marsh hens. The season ends November 30.

Crackers Pay Visit to Star of 1919 Team

A delegation of Atlanta baseball players and officials yesterday paid a visit to Milton Reed, star of the 1919 Atlanta pennant winners, and to other veterans at the U. S. veterans' base hospital on Peachtree road. The players made an appearance in the assembly room and also visited in the

Back in '19 Milton Reed Hit .600 for Crackers

Veteran Hopes To Be Spectator at the "Old-Timers" Game Here.

By RALPH MCGILL. In 1919 Milton Reed came to the Atlanta Crackers. He had served two years in the army. The army was quite active in the two years prior to 1919. Perhaps you recall the fact!

He was here for two months and his batting average was approximately .600. That is quite an average.

Yesterday a delegation of Atlanta Crackers called on Reed at the United States Veterans' Base hospital out on Peachtree road. They saw him and made personal appearances in the rooms of many of the patients who follow the Crackers on the radio.

CHIDE EDDIE.

Two of them had not been out of their rooms in four years. They were LeRoy Stiles and Henry Coleman. They both proved to be real fans by entering into an argument with Eddie Moore about running the ball club.

Forty or 50 patients were in the recreation room for the personal appearance. They met the players—Buster Chatham, Paul Richards, Eddie Moore, President Earl Mann and Nap Rucker. They asked questions and Eddie Moore replied to them in a most satisfactory manner.

The real event, however, was the visit to Milton Reed. He was deeply touched at being remembered. He and Eddie Moore were together for a while in the 1922 season and they recalled some of the old days.

"I remember they couldn't get you out, when you were here in 1919," said Earl Mann.

CHOKE UP BAT.

"It was funny about that," said Reed. "Down in Mobile there was a negro who never missed a game. I had been gone for two years. When I came back we played in Mobile. I didn't get a hit. After it was over this negro came to me and said, 'Mister Reed, you ain't swinging like you did when you was here before. Choke up that bat some.'"

"I did it and they couldn't get me out."

Reed has been seriously ill with stomach trouble. He is improved, however, and now hopes to have his doctor's permission to attend the "Old-Timers" game here on the last day of the season.

He played with the Cardinals, jumped to the Federal league and then came back with the Phillies in 1914 and 1915 for his major league experience.

Petrels Open With Stars Missing

As the initial Ogilthorpe football practice gets under way today, Coach John Patrick will be faced with the problems of finding replacements for graduating stars.

Among the players who are lost to the team are Puryear, Clyburn, and Sullivan. The job of replacing these players in the backfield is a tremendous one, and as usual, Coach Patrick is very gloomy about the situation.

The only ray of light he sees is the "find" of Pat Kelly, a triple-threat back, who Patrick claims is "the best prospect since B. Clark. He has everything a coach could want."

Martin Kelly, Fred's twin, and former Tech High star, will battle it out with the veteran, Ansil Taulk, for the wide-open fullback position.

The Petrels will open their grid card with the Georgia Bulldogs on September 25, and Coach Patrick expects to start two first-year men in the backfield—probably the Kelly twins.

The line situation is somewhat brighter with such veterans as Captain Bot Owens, Kemsley Stewart and Ben Eilenck returning. First year men expecting to develop into good linemen are Bobby Mills, Leskosky and John Bishop.

Kid Clay To Scout For Yellow Jackets

Alva (Kid) Clay, former Tech assistant coach, will do a bit of scouting for the Jackets this fall, it was announced yesterday. Clay once scouted for the Tech team and his reports on plays and individual players were considered very accurate and helpful by Coach W. A. Alexander.

ATLANTA IS NOW ONLY HALF-GAME FROM 3D PLACE

Champs Get Fine Pitching From Durham, Miller, Harris, Leonard.

By JACK TROY.

Striking at the zero hour in both games and each time aided by fortune's kindly smile, the Crackers last night captured both ends of a double-header from Knoxville, 3 to 2, and 2 to 1. The second game went nine innings.

The dual victory enabled the Crackers to lengthen their fourth-place lead to one and one-half games over Nashville.

But most important of all is the fact that the fast-stepping Cracker club is now only a half a game back of New Orleans, in third place, and only two and one-half games behind Memphis in second place.

Verily, it is to be a last-ditch battle for three of the four places in the playoff.

LAST-MINUTE RALLIES. But speaking of last-minute rallies, and one must if anything is said or written about last night's twin bill, it was a case of the Knoxville pitchers—Gordon Maltzberger and Kenneth Alphonse (Cannon Ball) Heintzleman—suffering fate's unpredictable treatment.

In the first game, Maltzberger, former Cracker rookie, limited Atlanta to six hits and no runs for seven innings.

Knoxville, having scored a run in the second and another in the eighth, seemed on the way to taking the Crackers by a shutout.

But the Crackers, powerless those seven innings, cut loose in the ninth.

GEORGIAN BATS ACROSS 7 RUNS WITH FOUR HITS

Lou Gehrig Hits for Circuit With Bases Loaded.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Rookie Rudy York, hitting his twenty-ninth and thirtieth home runs of the season, topped one of Babe Ruth's records yesterday as he led the Detroit Tigers in a 12-to-3 victory over Washington.

Ruth hit 17 homers in a single month in September, 1927. York's two circuit smashes over the scoreboard at Navin field were his seventeenth and eighteenth during August.

In addition York collected two singles for a perfect day at bat, and drove in seven of the Tiger runs. Two mates were on base when York hit each of his home runs.

Both of York's home runs were hit off Pete Appleton, the Nats' starting pitcher. The Senators touched Roxie Lawson, who won his seventeenth game of the season, for 11 safeties.

Lou Gehrig's thirty-first home run of the year, hit in the fifth inning with the bases loaded, provided the New York Yankees with enough runs to win as they routed the Indians, 7-3, in their series opener.

Joe Vosmik's sixth inning single, scoring the doubling Sammy West, enabled the St. Louis Browns to defeat Philadelphia, 2 to 1, in the first game of a double-header. The A's won the second game, 7-3.

Two wild throws by Harland Clift aided the Philadelphia Athletics in scoring five runs in the third inning to defeat the Browns in the second game.

REPLAY GAME. CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—(AP)—President William Harbridge, of the American league, today ordered the New York and Cleveland clubs to replay the protested game of August 28 on the next visit of the Cleveland club to the Yankee stadium.

Marshall and O'Connor In Title Bout Tonight

Everett Marshall, healthy, wealthy and wise heavyweight champion of the world (27 states and the National Wrestling Association recognize him as king) tonight meets Danny O'Connor, devil-may-care youngster who is getting his first title shot, in what should be a sensational battle at the ball park. Sam Muchnick, of St. Louis will referee.

And Frank Spear, encouraged by a heavy advance sale, announces that the show will definitely go on—regardless of weather conditions.

Marshall, the man who has defied London through the years, the Greek consistently refusing to meet the dazzling Dane, defeated Orville Brown and Chief Chevalier in previous appearances here. He had all he could handle in Brown, but O'Connor looks even more formidable.

Milo Steinborn who recently shouldered a 434-pound bar and did a deep knee bend in the ball park ring, will pit his great strength against Tom Mahoney, of Louisville, in the semi-final.

Red Ryan, of Baltimore, the third Irishman on the card, will meet Chris Zaharias in the 30-minute curtain raiser at 8:30.

CUBS TAKE LEAD

AS GIANTS LOSE TO ST. LOUIS, 8-1

Tex Carlton Pitches Chicago Back Into First Place in National.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. After having surrendered the National league lead to the Giants for 24 hours, the Chicago Cubs moved out in front again yesterday with a 4-2 victory over the Dodgers while the Giants were being shellacked by the Cardinals.

Tex Carlton, winning his twelfth game against five defeats, furnished the Chicagoans with effective pitching. He set the Dodgers down with eight hits, two of which they combined with a walk and a sacrifice in the third for both their runs.

The Cubs, connecting for nine hits off Fred Frankhouse, who hurled a seven-inning no-hitter his last time out, scored their first run with two out in the third. Augie Galan walked, stole second and took third on a wild throw by Catcher Babe Phelps. He crossed the plate on Billy Herman's single.

The Giants' shaky grip on first place in the National league was loosened as they dropped the first game of a series to the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-1, at the same time that the Chicago Cubs were turning back Brooklyn.

The Cardinals, hammering three New York pitchers for 16 hits that included home runs by Don Padgett, Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize, forced the damage to Sick Castleman.

Twirling eight hitless innings, Danny MacFayden hung up his 11th win of the season and seventh in eight starts as the Boston Bees took the series opener from the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 2.

In only one inning—the sixth—the Reds got to the veteran, bespectacled, Boston right-hander. In that frame three hits, one a double by Hub Walker, brought the Reds' only runs.

Bucky Walters, former third baseman turned pitcher, started the sixth-place Phillies on a winning streak, shutting out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3 to 0, with five hits for his 14th victory of the season. The game was played in an hour, 26 minutes, the fastest at Baker Bowl this year.

their half of the eighth and scored all three runs to win. And in the second game, they trailed by 1 to 0 for six innings and tied up the game in the seventh, going on to win in the ninth.

VINE RELIEF PITCHING. In each game great Cracker relief pitching figured prominently. In fact, Emil Leonard, relieving Luman Harris in the seventh of the second game, went on from there to win his 13th victory of the season.

Bobby Durham was credited with the first game—his 14th win—but Larry Miller pitched the last inning and did a great piece of relief hurling, fanning two and causing the other batter to fly harmlessly to the outfield.

Knoxville lost its 100th and 101st games last night. The Smokies have played in tough luck this year. A check may show that at least 30 of the games they've played have been by one run.

The Smokies may set a new league record for losing, but hard luck will be heavily responsible.

SMOKIES SCORE. The Smokies scored their opening run in the first game in the second with two men out. Dwyer singling and Brown doubling. The second run in the eighth was in the nature of a gift, Galvin throwing wide of first on Russell's bunt, enabling him to reach second, and then following Whitehead's sacrifice, letting a pitch get away from him to let Russell, former Baylor football star, score.

The Crackers entered the eighth facing this deficit and Maltzberger, who had been an anathema, or worse. Paul Richards batted for Durham and started the winning rally with a double down the third base line. Luby fled to Whitehead. Then Hill singled to right, scoring Richards. Mallo doubled to right-center and Hill was held up at third.

ERROR HELPS. Hooks hit what looked like a perfect double play ball, but after Dutch Meyer threw to Russell, catching Rose, who had walked, Russell threw low to Manager Caldwell at first, allowing Hill to score with the tying run. Galvin supplied the winning punch, singling off Calvey's glove and sending Mallo home with the winning run.

Miller fogged a fast ball through there in the ninth, cutting down the Smokies as a scythe mows down wheat straw.

The second game again found the Crackers powerless in the early innings. Heintzleman faced only 19 batters in the first six innings. And he caused his own misery, walking in the tying run in the seventh.

HILL SINGLES. It so happened that Johnny Hill led off with a single and Mallo sacrificed. Calvey threw wild and both were safe. Then Heintzleman fanned Rose and Hooks in succession. It was a tense moment as Richards walked, filling the bases. Chatham then drew a walk and Hill walked home with the tying run.

In the ninth, the Crackers got their chance. Lowe had replaced Heintzleman in the eighth. He walked Mallo. Rose sacrificed. Hooks grounded out. Richards.

HAAS SHOOT 68,

TOPS QUALIFIERS IN FIRST ROUND

Barnes Shoots Spectacular 32 on First Nine at Los Angeles.

By ROBERT MYERS. LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Freddie Haas Jr., lanky Louisiana, drove into by lead of the western amateur golf championship late today, shooting a sub-par 68 to take the lead in the first round of qualifying play.

The young national intercollegiate champion from Louisiana State posted his score three under par with the outstanding stars of the 38th annual tournament still out.

Out in 35 with one birdie to lead by a stroke, Haas came back in 33—and lost a three-foot putt on the last green to miss clipping another stroke off par. His last nine included four birdies and two bogies.

Par scores were scarce. Nate Marshall, enjoying a round on his own course, turned in a 69. Tommy Barnes, of Atlanta, Ga., came in with a 70 after a spectacular 32, four under, on the first nine, and his fellow townsman, Charlie Yates, matched it with a 35-35-70.

Barnes' 32 going out included five birdies, but a bogie six on the eighth and three more on the 10th, 11th and 12th boosted his score. Nearly 450 golfers entered the tournament, the 38th in the history of the Western Golf Association.

Scores of amateurs trooped down after playing in the national amateur championship at Portland, headed by runner-up Ray Billows, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who shot a 75 today.

LADIES GRAPPLE THURSDAY NIGHT

Wrestling fans are promised action aplenty Thursday night when the Avondale arena offers three good matches, starting at 8:30 p.m. Miss Jean Rogers, California lady grappler, will meet Miss Dolly Dalton, Miami Blond Tigress, in one of the feature bouts of the card. These two feminine stars are among the best in the business in their class and there is never a dull moment when they swing into action. Miss Rogers relies on scientific wrestling, while Dalton, should the Miami grappler get too rough, Miss Rogers says she will desert the scientific ranks and go on the warpath. The two women stars use all the holds that the masculine wrestlers use and at times are just as unruly.

In another main go, Ted Bell, East Lynn grappler, who has not lost a bout since coming here will meet Paddy Nolan, Irish Killer. Nolan is one of the roughest in the game and may be the first to put a crimp in Bell's style.

While Bell is a scientific matman, he is a boxer of note. He was recently sought after to fight Ben Brown.

Jack Layden, Denver star, meets Dutch Wyman, Colorado star, in the opening match.

English Ace Seeks New Speed Record

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Captain George Eyston arrived on the Aquitania today in quest of a new world's land speed record. The British racing pilot will proceed to Bonneville salt flats in Utah later this week.

The automobile—a specially built monster now being assembled in England—with which he hopes to boost the record eventually to 400 miles an hour, will be brought over to this country later.

Kid Brown Leases Forrest Hills Club

James (Kid) Brown, Georgia's amateur champion last year and professional at the Black Rock Country Club since early spring, has leased the Forrest Hills Club, at Avondale, for a two-year period. Brown will become general manager and professional at the club this morning.

The Forrest Hills course is one of the sportiest nine-hole layouts in the Greater Atlanta district. It has several narrow fairways, which adds a premium for the straight driver, a fine water hole, and one of the finest dogleg finishes in the state.

Forrest Hills was formerly a member of the North Georgia Golf League and at present has a membership of more than 50.

It has been operated on a semi-private basis for the past several years and with Brown in charge, he hopes to make it an exclusive club within the next two years. He has the privilege of renewing

LARRY BECKETT WILL RACE HERE

Larry Beckett, Dayton, Ohio, speedster, will be one of the outstanding contenders in the two-day auto race program at the Lakewood park oval on Sunday and Monday, September 5 and 6, his entry having been received by President Mike Benton, of the Southeastern Fair.

Beckett is no newcomer to Atlanta, having appeared here several times before and nearly always finishing in the money. He drives a Sheppard Hal Special, often referred to as the most beautiful racing car in America. Jack Sheppard, affluent sportsman of Tampa, Fla., under whose colors Larry patrols the speedways, believes his ace is capable of lowering the existing track record when he takes off at Lakewood. He has recently been a consistent first-place finisher in the northwest circuit and on the banked tracks of Ohio and Indiana.

I. M. C. A. Representative Al Sweeney has urged Beckett and all other drivers in the lineup to come to Atlanta early so they may become thoroughly familiar with the unorthodox curves at Lakewood. Qualifying time trials are scheduled for 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

Cleveland Recalls Pelicans, Smokies

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians have exercised options on 14 of their minor league prospects, Vice President Cy Slapnicka announced today. Some of the rookies will join the Tribe this month while others will report next spring.

Six players will come from New Orleans. They are: Jim Shilling, Tom Irwin and Oscar Grimes, infielders; Tom Drake and John

HERE'S HOW YOU WIN $100,000.00 IN THIS NEW, EASY CONTEST

—Read Explanation Below—

YOU SUPPLY THE REPLY FOR THE EMPTY BALLOON

HERE is what you do to win in this contest. Just study the conversation in the cartoon, and then YOU SUPPLY THE REPLY FOR THE EMPTY BALLOON.

For instance, in the SAMPLE cartoon above, Mary is being asked for advice.

Mary's reply might be:

"Old Golds. They hold their ash better. Nobody'll burn your tablecloth."

Or, Mary might say:

"Old Golds! Smokers seldom drop ashes when they smoke Old Golds."

Mary might say:

"Get Old Golds. They're always fresh. They'll please everybody."

There are so many things that Mary could reply that it seems almost needless to give any more examples. For instance, Mary might very well make any of the following three replies:

"My choice is Old Golds. They're always fresh, always Double-Mellow."

"Get Old Golds: Their double Cellophane package keeps them wonderfully fresh."

"Either buy several brands or get Old Golds. Old Golds please everybody."

There is nothing hard about this contest. Almost anybody can think of dozens of things that Mary would reply. And it's the same with all of the Official Cartoons in this contest. Just study the picture and the conversation and supply your own, original reply for the blank balloon. That's all there is to it.

Under each of the Official Cartoons you will find suggestions to help you write the missing conversation for the empty balloon.

This contest, in its entirety, copyrighted, 1937, by P. Lorillard Co., Inc.

Double-Your-Money-Back if Old Golds Fail to Please

So supreme is our confidence in Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS that we will gladly send you TWICE the price you paid for a package if you don't like Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS better than any other cigarette. Buy your first package of OLD GOLDS. Thrill to the flavor and richness of Double-Mellow OLD GOLD'S exclusive Prize Crop Tobacco, its smoking excellence doubly protected for you by two jackets of Cellophane.

After smoking the first 10 cigarettes in your first package of OLD GOLDS—if for any reason OLD GOLD is not exactly to your taste and liking, no questions asked. Return the remaining 10 cigarettes and the wrapper to us, and we will send you twice what you paid for the entire package, plus postage. Then, if you wish, you may continue in the contest by sending reasonably accurate hand-drawn facsimiles of the OLD GOLD wrapper.

Mrs. Robert Hecht Is Seated Near The Duke and Duchess of Windsor

By Sally Forth.

A PROPOS of the Salzburg influence introduced in the forthcoming fall styles in America, Sally deems it timely to tell about Mrs. Robert Hecht's recent experience in Austria's little mountain town. The Atlanta, who has spent the summer abroad, attended the opening performance of the opera, "Fidelio," in which her close friend, Madame Lotte Lehmann, who has often visited the Hechts here, was the celebrated star.

In the vast audience were the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who sat two seats removed from Mrs. Hecht. While the entire assemblage craned necks to see the famous pair the Atlanta had excellent opportunity to observe the newlyweds closely and without effort.

In a letter to Atlanta friends Mrs. Hecht states that the Duke appeared bored throughout the performance, except when the Duchess leaned close to whisper in his ear. Mrs. Hecht was impressed with the former Mrs. Simpson's striking style of dress. Studying her features closely, the Atlanta was convinced that the Duchess possesses a perfect understanding of men, and is ideally suited to the former British ruler.

Mrs. Hecht writes that the Salzburg performances assembled the whole musical world from America, Europe and Asia. The little Austrian village was overrun with artists, connoisseurs, writers, dancers, movie stars and composers. Harold Kreutzberg, Toscanini, Greta Garbo, Bruno Walter, Max Reinhardt and Felix Salten were often glimpsed by Mrs. Hecht at the performance of "Fidelio." According to the Atlanta, Salzburg presented a real paradise for autograph seekers.

With her little daughter, Mia Lotte, Mrs. Hecht will return to the States next week aboard the steamer New York, thence to Atlanta.

SEPTEMBER 1 has always been a red letter day in Mrs. W. F. Spalding's family. The date marks the birthday of this charming Atlanta matron, who is the adored mother of Anne Spalding, Mrs. James White Jr., of Athens, the former Elizabeth Spalding and William Spalding.

Anne, who now resides in New York, arrived in Atlanta today from the metropolis to spend the eventful day with her mother. In fact, Anne accompanied her mother to Atlanta from New York, where Mrs. Spalding spent the past two weeks. Soon after Anne's arrival her sister came from Athens to discuss plans for their mother's birthday party. It was to be a surprise affair, but Mrs. Spalding became so inquisitive over the many behind-closed-doors conferences that the girls finally broke down and let her in on their secret.

The celebration calls for a dinner party this evening at the Capital City Club. Amid showers of congratulations and myriads of flowers Mrs. Spalding, whom Sally thinks is one of Atlanta's most attractive and youngish matrons, will be dined and toasted.

ATLANTA'S are enjoying the current visit here of Mr. and Mrs. John Hewlett, who are dividing their time between staying with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hewlett, in Druid Hills and at their farm at Conyers.

Mrs. Hewlett is the former Lorraine Werlein, beautiful belle of New Orleans, whose marriage to the handsome John Hewlett was an event of last winter. Sally recalls that their marriage took place sooner than they planned, for John was due here to make arrangements for the presentation of Colleen Moore's famous Doll House, which was sponsored by members of the Young Matrons' Circle of the Tallulah Falls School. When he came, he brought his bride with him.

The Doll House is held very dear to the Hewletts. It was during its exhibit in New Orleans that John met the lovely Lorraine, who, with other members of the Junior League then, was in charge of the presentation. Intimates of Lorraine have been intrigued by her gold charm bracelet from which dangles many unusual and interesting tokens. One is a very small glass jar filled with rice which Lorraine says was some of the rice thrown at her and John after their wedding. The other, which is quite amusing, is an equally small gold box which the wearer says holds a dollar bill that is her "mad money."

Miss Jones Honored At Party Series

Miss Elizabeth Jones, whose marriage to Jones Wesley Henry Jr., of Athens, will be an important social event of September 8, was central figure at the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Philip Graves at her Ponce de Leon avenue residence. Mrs. Hayden Jones and Mrs. E. V. Carter Jr., mother and aunt of the honor guest, assisted in entertaining. Guests included Misses Jones, Lily Mitchell Barnett, Ellen Rhodes, Anne Suttles, Elizabeth and Dorothy See, Mabel Jones, Kathleen Griffin, Lawson Carter, Mrs. Howard Graves and Mrs. Orville Cawthon Jr.

Miss Frances Henry honors Miss Jones and her fiancé at a bridge party this evening at her home in Athens, guests to include a group of Athens friends of the young couple.

Mrs. Carroll Griffin gives a supper party Friday evening in honor of Miss Jones and Mr. Henry at the hostess' home on Fifteenth street.

Misses Ann Bell and Margaret Touchton will be hostesses at a luncheon Saturday at 2 o'clock at the East Lake Country Club, with the bride-elect as guest.

Miss Jones is the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Jones and is being feted at a series of parties prior to her marriage next week.

Menzen-Wilkerson Rites Set for Friday.

Interest centers in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Grace Menzen and John W. Wilkerson, whose marriage takes place on Friday evening at 8 o'clock at Druid Hills Baptist church.

Miss Menzen has chosen for her matron of honor her sister, Mrs. William Clonts, and for bridesmaids, Misses Iris Kerlin, Willie Ridley, Lucile Allen and Dorothy Seligman. The flower girl will be Julianne Baird and Hugh Baird Wilkerson, brother of the groom, will be ring bearer.

The groomsmen are Charles Gates, Henry Sheridan, Ben Paron, Polk Land, all of Columbus, and the best man is A. Morton Baird, a cousin of the groom.

The bride-elect has been honored at a number of parties and showers and is very popular among the younger set.

The bride-elect's mother, Mrs. E. B. Menzen, will entertain at an open house this evening from 8 to 10 o'clock at her home, 1307 West Peachtree street, in honor of her daughter and her fiancé. Miss Menzen's attendants will assist in entertaining the 100 guests.

Miss Dennard Feted.

Mrs. B. F. Jester complimented Miss Kathryn Dennard, bride-elect, with a handkerchief shower recently at her home in West End. Miss Dennard's marriage to Melvin Frank Moody will be solemnized October 8 at the Capitol View Baptist church.

Invited in addition to the honor guest, were Mesdames G. W. Moody, L. J. Dennard, B. H. Rodgers, J. E. Dodgen, Charlie Blalock, Martha Adair, Stella Jones, S. H. Barrett, J. W. Meadows, M. G. Gilreath, F. C. Rodgers, S. F. Jester, A. Lane, Miss Margaret Goler, Elizabeth Chambers, Evelyn Boggs, Eleanor Nelson, M. L. Loughry and Louise Nunnally.

Society Events

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1.

The marriage of Miss Betty Shaw and Frank Herman Snipes Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn., takes place at 8:30 o'clock at the Church of the Epiphany, after which Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Shaw, parents of the bride-elect, entertain at an informal reception at their home on Fairview road.

The marriage of Miss Willatha Inez Goodman and Harold Preston Jackson takes place at noon at St. Luke's Episcopal church.

Mrs. Willis Dobbs gives a trousseau tea at her home on Oakdale road for Miss Sarah Dobbs, bride-elect, from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock.

Miss Nancy Moody gives a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on Northwood drive honoring her guest, Miss Mary Bland, of Louisville, Ky.

Miss Lillian Jordan Weds Mr. McMillan.

DANIA, Fla., Aug. 31.—The marriage of Miss Lillian Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Jordan, of Dania, Fla., and James J. McMillan, of Macon and Milledgeville, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McMillan, of Milledgeville, took place Tuesday evening at the Dania Methodist church with the Rev. John M. Shingler, of Cameron, S. C., uncle of the bride, officiating.

A musical program preceded the ceremony presented by Mrs. W. J. Churchwell, of Miami Beach, vocalist, and Miss Frances Shelton was the pianist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white alencon lace over white taffeta with a Queen Elizabeth collar and leg-of-mutton sleeves ending in a point at the wrists. She wore a three-quarter length veil which fell from a halo of real orange blossoms. The bride wore a pearl brooch, which was a family heirloom and carried handkerchief that her mother carried at her wedding. Her flowers were bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Emily Jordan, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Louise Jordan, of Atlanta, and cousin of the bride, and Miss Sylvia Grifflon, of Miami Beach. Flower girls were Miss Woodley Shingler and Miss Minnie Lou Tubbs.

Ben Eberhart, of Milledgeville, Ga., was the best man and the groomsmen were Monroe Jordan and James Jordan, brothers of the bride. Ushers were Carlyle McCray and Robert Wood.

After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents and those assisting in serving were Mesdames R. S. Shingler, J. M. Shingler, W. S. Parker, John B. Gregory, F. L. Neville, E. A. Crudup, L. T. Ellis, Misses Belle Shingler, and Miss Florence Yonce. Mrs. Floyd Robinson kept the bride's book.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., the bride wearing for traveling a suit of beige alpaca fashioned with a cape and having brown accessories. Her corsage was a bronze orchid. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan are residing at 140 High street, in Macon, Ga.

Miss Helen Ross Becomes Bride Of Thomas W. Dennis in Macon

MACON, Ga., Aug. 30.—The marriage of Miss Helen Ross and Thomas Ward Dennis took place on Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the Mulberry Methodist church. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Edmund P. Cook, performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives.

Miss Mary Johnson, of West Point, cousin of the groom, gave a musical program. Mrs. Thomas L. Ross Jr. was matron of honor and Miss Florence Dennis, of Granite Falls, N. C., niece of the groom; Miss Lillian Roberts, cousin of the bride, and Misses Margaret Haley and Mary Murphy were bridesmaids.

Mr. Dennis' best man was his brother, John Dennis, and the ushers were Frank Dennis, of Granite Falls, N. C., and Allen Dennis, also his brother; Dr. Thomas L. Ross Jr., brother of the bride; William Cox, Warren Oliver and Willis Johnson Jr., of Columbia, S. C.

The lovely bride entered with her father, Thomas Lewellyn Ross, who gave her in marriage. Her brunette beauty was offset by her wedding gown of ivory satin, fashioned on empire lines. She wore a veil of tulle and carried a bouquet of Bermuda lilies and valley lilies. She wore a seed pearl medallion on a rope of pearls, an ornament that belonged to her mother, and carried a real lace handkerchief that her mother carried at her wedding.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ross entertained at an informal reception at their home on Bridal Couple Feted At Social Affairs.

Miss Eleanor Whitte and her fiancé, Clyde Frederick Cole, whose marriage will be an interesting event of tomorrow, will be honored this evening when the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Whitte, entertain at a buffet supper following the wedding rehearsal.

Miss Evelyn Pollard complimented the bridal couple with a dinner Monday evening and yesterday Mrs. W. R. Lynch, of LaGrange, entertained the bride-elect at a linen shower at the home of Mrs. H. C. Steed, on Fatherwood drive.

A delightful affair of Monday afternoon honoring Miss Whitte was the miscellaneous shower at which Mrs. W. M. Campbell, Mrs. E. A. Beckwith and Mrs. C. R. Miller entertained at the latter's home on Avon avenue. The guests engaged in a treasure hunt, the honor guest being led to gifts hidden about the home.

Miss Ida Nevin Is Honor Guest

Mrs. Robert C. Hunt was hostess yesterday at a tea honoring Miss Ida Nevin, who will become the bride of Robin Brookshire on September 12. The event was held at the home of Mrs. Hunt on Wycliff road.

The hostess was assisted in entertaining by Mesdames James B. Nevin, mother of the honor guest, and T. N. Bradshaw, her sister, W. W. Boyd, Charles Fairweather, Frank Rowsey, Joe Westbrook and Miss Anna Blake Morrison.

Among the other parties which are announced for Miss Nevin is the spinster dinner to be given by Mrs. G. F. Willis on September 7 at her home on Brentwood drive. In addition Miss Anna Blake Morrison will honor the bride-elect at a luncheon on September 7 at the Biltmore hotel. A small group of friends of Miss Nevin has been invited. Mrs. William Hayes Hightower will be hostess for the bride-to-be at an informal luncheon on September 8 at her Ivy road residence.

Fetes Miss Thompson.

Mrs. Lewis Ray, of Log Cabin drive, entertained at a tea yesterday in honor of Miss Lillian Estelle Thompson, of Birmingham, formerly of Atlanta. Her marriage to Holland Martin takes place on Wednesday.

Garden flowers decorated the home and formed the central arrangement on the lace-covered table and silver candelabra held white tapers.

Mrs. C. A. Thompson, Miss Lillian Thompson and Mrs. Lewis Ray assisted in receiving.

Miss Shivers and Mr. Shepherd Wed at St. Mark on October 27

Social interest centers in the wedding plans of Miss Dorothy Shivers and James McMaster Shepherd, the ceremony to take place at 8 o'clock in the evening on October 27 at St. Mark Methodist church on Peachtree street. The bride-elect will be given in marriage by Dr. Everard D. Richardson, her father, and the ceremony will be witnessed by a fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends of the popular bride-elect and prospective groom.

Mrs. Robert Paul Ludwig will be matron of honor and Miss Edith Shepherd, sister of the groom-elect, will be maid of honor. The bride of attractive bridesmaids include Misses Eloise Gresham, Nell Freeman, Marguerite Roddey, Margaret Smith, of Birmingham, Ala.; Charlotte Head, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Ruth Hollingshead, of Milledgeville. William McWhorter, of Lexington; Douglas Shepherd, Charles Stokes, Walter Willis, John Graham, Olin Crabb and Robert Paul Ludwig will be groomsmen, and ushers are Russell McKinney, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Richard Hardwick, Richard Garlington, Leonard Richardson, Everard D. Richardson Jr. and Craig Shepherd.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT

No. 57

Lord remained awake, his lynx-like eyes fixed on the sleeping Tarzan, whose hand lay across the emerald. His mind conjured up all the luxuries and pleasures of civilization which the mammoth gem would buy. He must have it! The jewel was worth almost any risk!

Dusk passed, and night came. Lord watched the hand resting upon the emerald—watched and waited. Tarzan, sunk in the sleep of exhaustion, moved his hand slightly. Slowly it slipped from the emerald.

This was the precious moment for which Lord had been waiting so patiently, so eagerly. For many long years he had watched Tarzan, and he knew that the magician had always placed his hand on the mystic jewel when he sought to draw upon its wonderful powers.

Now, Lord believed, Tarzan enjoyed no longer the supernatural protection of the stone. But he must be careful, for Tarzan's natural strength was as the strength of ten. Lord rose and crept forward. Soon he stood over the sleeping man, his spear ready in hand!

TENANTS' PLIGHT

TENANTS' FLIGHT

CITED BY HOPKINS

Survey Shows Need for Permanent Farm Rehabilitation Program.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Assuming a permanently decreased demand for cotton, the tenant system of the south has produced a "stranded" population, a group of landless people with undeveloped capacities, who, unless some scheme for rehabilitation is devised, will be in need of public assistance for all time, Harry L. Hopkins, administrator of WPA, said today in releasing a comprehensive survey of farm families on relief from 1933 through 1935. Pre-depression years, the report said, brought a crisis in the cotton market, resulting in decreasing prices and a large carryover from one season to another. "When the depression brought these conditions to a climax" it continued, "acreage was sharply reduced, and tenants, especially sharecroppers, were displaced from the land. . . . The acreage reduction program of the AAA raised prices and helped the cotton growers by benefit payments. Most of the tenants' payments in the first years of the program, however, were applied by the landlords to old debts, and tenants continued to be displaced."

Relief programs under the old FERA, which were grants specifically for rural rehabilitation, made in May, 1934, counted Georgia among seven southern states whose farmers were aided. For instance there were 6,978 cases which received federal relief advances in Georgia in February, 1935; 9,908 in March; 12,161 in April; 12,457 in May, and 12,394

Outlining programs of reconstruction, the survey emphasized that "the reconstruction of American agriculture demands the conservation of the human values in rural life as specifically as it calls for the conservation of soil and natural resources."

"The more fundamental measures for building an agrarian civilization of the highest order in the "United States," the survey said, "are evidently long time measures, not planned for quick results. This is especially true of tenancy reform, of programs for crop control, of the development of a population policy, and of the improvement of the rural standard of living and rural institutions."

RIFLE LYING NEARBY.
DANIELSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 31. Earl B. Davis, 46, a farmer, today was found dead on his farm four miles west of here, shot through the head with his own rifle. His body was found by his two sons, lying against a fence. The gun lay near by.

Davis' sons reported their step-mother left home yesterday following an out-of-court settlement
